Her plot to kill herself backfires

WAUSEON, Ohio (AP) — Watha Harmon wanted to die. She was "despondent over family problems" and her ex-husband, Frank, had died last fall.

So, the 55-year-old Fayette woman paid four men $33,000 to kill her.

But somewhere, Mrs. Harmon's plan backfired. She is alive, the money has disappeared, two men are in jail and two others still were sought Thursday on charges of grand theft and conspiracy to commit murder.

That is the story revealed in a secret grand jury indictment made public Wednesday. It says that Mrs. Harmon paid $33,000 last December, a month before her murder was to have taken place.

She told authorities the hired killers disappeared with the money.

Indicted on charges of grand theft and conspiracy to commit aggravated murder were Edward Shane, 31, Toronto, Ohio; Bruno Angel Wojtowicz, 38, and Paul Wetzel, both of East Liverpool, Ohio, and Thomas Taylor, Wellsville, Ohio.

Shane and Wojtowicz, also known as Ben Angel, were arrested Sunday and Monday in Jefferson County and returned to Fulton County on Tuesday.

The two appeared Wednesday in common pleas court where bond was set at $100,000 for each. No date has been set for their arraignment. They are in county jail.

The Fulton County sheriff has asked the FBI to search for Taylor and Wetzel who are believed to have left Ohio.

Fulton County Prosecutor Richard McQuade Jr. said Mrs. Harmon was named as an unindicted co-consipriator, but he doesn't plan to file charges against her.

The grand jury indictment charges the four men planned the murder with Mrs. Harmon in late 1976. The indictment said she paid them on Dec. 3.

The four men gave Mrs. Harmon "narcotic and dangerous drugs to be ingested" by the woman to render her "unconscious during the murder," which was to take place Jan. 8.

McQuade said Mrs. Harmon, who was not harmed in any way, wanted to die because of "family problems."

'I guess the best way to describe it is that she was despondent," he said. She was divorced, and her ex-husband Frank, died last fall.

The prosecutor said that Shane, an insurance agent, had sold Mrs. Harmon some life insurance. He declined to disclose how the arrangements were made for the proposed murder.

The sheriff's department and Fayette police took six months "to put the pieces together" in an investigation before the case could be brought to the grand jury, McQuade said, adding "the whole case is bizarre. It's not your run of the mill case."

Attacks Carter's domestic, foreign policies

Reagan emerging as administration's sharpest critic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan, who never got a chance to run against Jimmy Carter, is campaigning against him now and is emerging as the sharpest Republican critic of the Democratic administration.

In speeches Thursday in New York and Washington, Reagan attacked Carter's policies at home and abroad and accused him of violating his campaign promise to restore confidence in government.

At a $100-a-plate fundraiser here for conservative causes, Reagan said Carter promised during the 1976 campaign that he would "never become part of this city's buddy system."

But Reagan, who also campaigned on an anti-Washington theme in his unsuccessful run for the GOP nomination, said Carter has "managed to adapt rather well to this city that has become his home."

"He's been in office now for nearly six months and in that time has managed to assemble the largest and highest paid White House staff in history," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

The former actor and two-term governor of California also attacked Carter's support for repeal of Hatch Act prohibitions against government workers participating in partisan politics.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who says he is beholden to no special interests advances the repeal of legislation designed to insulate federal government workers from crass political pressure," he said.

And he opposed Carter's plan to allow election day voter registration, sounding the theme repeatedly used by GOP members of Congress. Reagan called the proposal "a scheme that would debase the franchise by opening our electoral system to wholesale fraud.

"In light of all this, I'm afraid that I can only conclude that if the American people want to cut back government, they're going to have to look somewhere besides the White House, where the Democrats are simply doing business as usual."

Earlier in the day, in a New York speech before the Foreign Policy Association, Reagan attacked Carter's foreign policy, especially his human rights campaign.

"The new administration's foreign policy has aimed most of its human rights criticisms at governments which are no threat to others and which, despite not always behaving precisely as we might like, have nevertheless been our friends," he said.

Reagan criticized the administration for opposing chrome imports from Rhodesia while opening trade with Cuba and negotiating a canal treaty with Panama. It was Reagan, in his primary battle against Gerald Ford, who first made Panama Canal treaty negotiations a campaign issue.

Reagan, who has transformed his old campaign organization into a new political action committee called Citizens for the Republic, has been increasingly pointed in his criticism of Carter in recent months.

Ford, too, has been critical of some of Carter's decisions, but it has been Reagan who has opposed the Democratic administration most actively in speeches, newspaper columns and radio broadcasts.

'American people to suffer, pay'

President accuses Congress of bowing to oil, auto lobbies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter accused Congress today of knuckling under to the oil and auto lobbies and said the American people will "be the ones to suffer ... and the ones who will pay."

Carter's reaction to a series of votes by House panels that struck down key parts of his comprehensive energy plan was reported by White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Powell said angrily and sarcastically that a House Commerce subcommittee's approval Thursday of immediate and full decontrol of natural gas prices amounts to "a paltry $71 billion rip-off."

Referring to decontrol, Powell vowed that the administration will do its best "to kill the damn thing."

The subcommittee rejected Carter's plan for a phased removal of federal price controls from natural gas and voted to drop regulation entirely.

The House Ways and Means Committee killed Carter's standby gasoline tax Thursday, struck down his proposed tax rebate on high-mileage cars and put off any penalty taxes on gas guzzlers until the 1979 model year.

"The people of this country will be the ones to suffer if our hopes for an energy plan are thwarted," Powell quoted the President as saying. "They will be the ones to pay for yesterday's special-interest victories."

Powell said Carter was referring to oil companies, automobile manufacturers and their lobbies.

Powell said Carter is concerned that the congressional actions are evidence "of a trend in the Congress not to face up" to difficult energy decisions despite reports from the Congressional Budget Office and the General Accounting Office, which are congressional agencies, that the President's energy proposals should be strengthened, not weakened.

Carter's concern is focused specifically on votes scheduled for next week on his proposals to increase the well head tax on oil and to require factories to convert from oil to coal.

"I can't see one good purpose in tossing around our vote counts," Powell said. "But I think we've got a tough fight on our hands."

The press secretary said the main responsibility for proposing alternatives to the President's dead proposals lies with the Congress that killed them.

But Powell said the administration, too, will try to come up with alternatives. He called it no easy task. Powell said it would be wrong to speculate that this meant Carter is about to propose rationing.

"Alternatives are to speak to members of Congress and to the American people to present the facts as he sees them," Powell said of one possible presidential move.

But he rejected suggestions that this meant Carter would "go over the heads of Congress to the people" to get his energy proposals passed. He said there are no plans for a presidential address to the nation.

"I can't this morning predict to you what is going to be the most productive route to pursue. I can't predict whether the most productive thing would be to remake the same proposals or whether it would be to try to come at it from a different direction," Powell said.

Last two of Greek octuplets expire

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The last two of the octuplets born to a 25-year-old Greek woman who had been taking fertility drugs died today, a hospital spokesman said.

Six died soon after Cleo Zerbili, of Lesbos Island, gave birth Thursday in an Athens hospital. The other two died of respiratory difficulties early this morning after failing to respond to emergency treatment, the spokesman said.

The babies were two months premature, and their weights ranged from 1½ to 2½ pounds. The two that died today were the heaviest of the eight.

Mrs. Zerbili, the wife of a bank clerk, gave birth to quadruplets prematurely two years ago after taking a fertility hormone, but all of them died shortly after birth also.

Carter adviser says tax reduction likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax cut may be among the tax reform proposals President Carter sends to Congress later this year, his chief economic adviser says.

'RIP OFF' DAY

Graduate student nurses at the California Hospital School of Nursing in Los Angeles toss their old uniforms in the air after the girls engaged in "Senior Rip Day." The traditional last day as a student nurse stunt started 30 years ago when the graduates ripped off their student uniforms they will no longer wear. Smocks were provided those who lost their uniforms.

Pomona police probe fairgrounds incident

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona Police Department's internal affairs division is investigating the complaints of several Mattel Inc. employes that officers attacked them without provocation during a fracas last Sunday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, Police Chief R.A. Slaght said today.

The incident occurred during a company picnic attended by several thousand employes of the Industry toy manufacturer.

Criticism of police actions at the fairgrounds was related by Jacqueline Hacker, chief steward of the United Rubber Workers Local 766. Many of the union's 1,700 members were at the picnic attended by a total of 6,000 Mattel Inc. employes, according to Mrs. Hacker. She said that 25 to 30 employes were injured during the melee with five or six having to seek private medical treatment afterward.

Both the police and Mrs. Hacker seem to agree that the trouble began with a fight involving several persons that afternoon on the parking lot near the fun zone.

Police subsequently arrested three persons, one adult and two 16-year-old youths, in connection with that incident in which a La Puente man and his 19-year-old son were beaten seriously enough to require hospital treatment. The adult was arrested at the fairgrounds that day and the youths were arrested earlier this week. All three suspects were charged with assault likely to produce great bodily injury — a felony.

But Mrs. Hacker charged that off-duty policemen at the scene, for whom the union had paid $750 to furnish security, unnecessarily called for a "riot squad" during the fight. She charged that officers who arrived over acted and attacked many of the approximately 150 persons who remained on the grounds after the picnic ended.

Police, in their reports, however, charged that officers were showered with beer bottles and rocks, an accusation which Mrs. Hacker denied. She said she was there and maintained that the crowd never threatened the policemen.

But police reported that members of the crowd tried to free the prisoner they had taken.

Afterward, Mrs. Hacker said, several members of the union went directly to the Pomona Police Department and lodged formal complaints about the alleged over action of those officers present.

Chief Slaght said those complaints have been received and are being investigated. Prior to the completion of the investigation, he said, he does not feel it proper to comment in detail on the charges.

U.S. oil firm, Canada ask panel to keep probe documents secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gulf Oil Corp. is trying to persuade House investigators to keep secret a nine-inch stack of documents allegedly proving the firm was at the center of an international cartel conspiring to boost uranium prices.

A company which builds nuclear power plants says that price-fixing activities of the alleged cartel helped drive the cost of uranium from $6 or $7 a pound in 1972 to $41 a pound.

Gulf is being joined in its request by the government of Canada, which told the State Department that several documents are confidential records of the Canadian Department of Energy, Mines and Resources.

Last month Gulf lost a fight in U.S. District Court here to keep the documents out of the hands of the investigations unit of the House Commerce Committee.

The documents were then in the possession of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., a manufacturer of nuclear power plants. The firm has accused the alleged cartel of engineering a seven-fold increase in the price of uranium, which prevented it from meeting delivery contracts at agreed prices.

In a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge George Hart last May 5, Westinghouse attorney William Jentes said the documents are "nothing more than the minutes of these conspiratorial get-togethers of the producers."

Official report

Fatal supper club blaze started in crawl space

FORT MITCHELL, Ky. (AP) — The fire that killed 161 people in the Beverly Hills Supper Club May 28 originated in a crawl space within the Zebra Room, the state fire marshal said today.

Warren Southworth told a news conference that the most probable cause of ignition was electrical and would have been fed by combustibles such as ceiling tiles and wood material used for supports.

Southworth said that the fire burned for "considerable time" prior to discovery.

"The ignition sequence led to an intense heat build up within the concealed space which ultimately resulted in an accumulation of smoke and hot gases within the Zebra Room itself," Southworth said.

"It was at this point that the fire was discovered and attempts were made to extinguish it." Southworth said.

The fire marshal said while attempts were still being made to put out the fire in the Zebra Room, "simultaneous ignition" of all combustible material within the room occurred.

The fire continued to build, he said, until it broke out of the Zebra Room through double doors located at the north end of the room and spread rapidly throughout the structure.

Meanwhile, State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg said investigators had found roulette tables crated in the basement of the burned out building.

Southworth said the club had passed its most recent fire inspection on Jan. 27.

But there are no documents in the files for the years 1972-75. Southworth said he doesn't know whether this indicates that no inspections were made or whether inspection records and correspondence for those years are missing.

TOP IN CLASS OF 1

Cheryl Hauck, 17, with her principal, Michael Moore, stands in front of Alleghany High School in Northern California's Sierra County where she is the lone graduate this year being the first (and last) academically in her class. There are just 13 other pupils in high school with Cheryl, but she is the only senior.

$25 million program for PVMWD?

A two-step expansion program, the first calling for voter approval of a $25 million bond issue, is being considered by directors of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District (PVMWD).

The district staff is preparing final details on the two-part proposal, which would see development of first stages of water supply facilities in northern and southern areas of the 133-square-mile district.

PVMWD serves Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, the eastern portion of Covina, Walnut, Diamond Bar and Rowland Heights.

The "phased" plan was selected by the board from among 26 improvement-expansion plans submitted by staff as the best to satisfy district needs.

Discussions hinged on economics of the "phased" plan versus a more complete project, almost identical to the $35 million, 1975 proposal which voters rejected.

Directors instructed staff to complete an outline and cost estimate of phase one of the two-step plan which would expand pipeline systems and relocate a treatment plant in the district's northern section and build a reservoir and a pumping station in the southern section.

Under the plan, the northern plant — relocated to a recently purchased site on Miramar Avenue in northeastern Claremont — would treat water from Metropolitan Water District's Rialto Reach, and by gravity, supply local water utilities in Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, Covina and Pomona.

Use of gravity, directors said, would eliminate approximately 90 per cent of the pumping now necessary to provide imported water to those areas.

In the south, the district would purchase land for a future water treatment plant and reservoir, but place construction emphasis on pipelines and a booster plant. The site being proposed is in Tonner Canyon in northeast Diamond Bar.

The two-phase plan is the result of a study launched by PVMWD after the 1975 election defeat.

Directors agreed that, after phase one is complete, it would be necessary to call for another bond election by 1986 or 1987 to further upgrade facilities.

"We support responsible water management in our area," said board President William C. Leech, Covina. "We feel this plan is the best possible approach with the lowest present cost."

Other board members are Currier Thatcher, Pomona; Philip Wessels, Diamond Bar; Roger Wheeler, Claremont; and Paul Hertz, La Verne.

State briefs

Bus fares

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Senior citizens will apparently be exempt when bus fares go up next month.

Despite fare hikes for most of the Southern California Rapid Transit District's 800,000 daily riders—effective July 1—the seniors' price will stay at 10 cents, the SCRTD board indicated Thursday.

Teacher strike

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Classes were returning to normal and negotiations were set to resume today after city teachers won a no-revenge promise from school officials and ended a four-day strike.

The decision at a Thursday night rally of teachers in Balboa Park capped a day in which police said at least two teachers dropped from exhaustion on picket lines.

Water dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State officials have begun negotiations with Inyo County supervisors over how much ground water Los Angeles can pump from the Owens Valley.

At issue is a court-imposed limitation on pumping from the valley which has been a prime source of water for Southern California.

Andrus visit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus will arrive in California Monday for a four-day visit to acquaint himself with California issues involving his department.

He has speeches scheduled in San Francisco at the Press Club and the Western Conference Service Commission's convention.

He plans to meet with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

Saccharin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's unlikely the Food and Drug Administration will yield to pleas of diabetics and dieters and allow use of saccharin in bulk foods and drinks, the agency director says.

Dr. Donald Kennedy told a public hearing here Thursday that saccharin would probably be banned even if the controversial Delaney Amendment did not exist. It requires removal from the market of all additives which cause cancer in animals.

Leslie takes stand in own defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leslie Van Houten stared into space and reminisced about her LSD trip with Charles Manson—when she believed he was Christ and saw the trees moving.

"I used to look at the trees and I was sure I was seeing them growing," she said dreamily from the witness stand. "...Sometimes it looked like elves were sitting up in the trees."

Describing LSD, she said, "It makes you want to say thank you to a tree for being alive and being beautiful."

The 27-year-old Miss Van Houten, poised and softspoken, told jurors in her retrial how Manson indoctrinated followers while they were on acid trips."

Without coming out and saying, 'I'm Jesus Christ,' he made it clear he was," she said. "I believed he was."

She said Manson would talk to his drug followers for five or six hours at a time, mainly in riddles.

"They sound kind of silly now," said Miss Van Houten, "but back then seemed very profound. He seemed like a man full of wisdom. Sometimes he was like the Pied Piper."

In her second day of testimony, Miss Van Houten told how Manson began to lead his ragged "family" toward violence in 1969, predicting race war and escape to a "bottomless pit" in the desert.

When she resumes the stand Monday, she is expected to tell how the mood at the Manson commune finally shifted towards murder.

The slender, dark-haired Miss Van Houten is being retried for the murders of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca and conspiracy in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and four others. She was granted a new trial because her attorney died during the first.

Her current lawyer, Maxwell Keith, who contends Miss Van Houten was unable to premeditate murder, focused Thursday's testimony on the power of drugs in Manson's control.

"One trip we took at the ranch we took too much LSD," Miss Van Houten recalled. "I became unconscious through most of it...everyone freaked out. The next day the house was in shreds."

Manson, she said, used drugs to destroy the egos of his tribe members.

"The more I took acid, the more removed I became from the rest of society," she said. "Once you take it, you never know where you're going to end up the next day in your mind."

While she was "high," Manson would lecture.

"He said our egos were given to us by our parents...he said there was no right and no wrong...he spent a lot of time telling us how we had to get rid of what our parents had taught us."

Sometimes, she said, Manson ordered group sex orgies while followers were on LSD. "But it never happened," Miss Van Houten recalled.

Weekend weather

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Even though the calendar says it's well into June, the weather forecaster says it's not quite suntan weather yet.

As in the past few days, Saturday morning will be marked by low clouds, in some areas joined by fog, especially in coastal regions. But mostly sunny afternoons are predicted throughout Southern California.

A high near 75 degrees is forecast for Los Angeles, with beach temperatures also expected to reach the mid 70s.

The mountains and deserts should have fair weather most of the day Saturday, with slightly warmer temperatures. Afternoon winds in the coastal mountain passes of the desert are expected from 20 to 30 miles per hour.

Sentence Long Beach aide

Long Beach planning director has been sentenced to state prison for 1 to 14 years for accepting more than $52,000 in bribes over a five-year period in an attempt to buy City Council votes.

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer said in sentencing Ernest Mayer Thursday, "This is the type of offense which merits prison because he had a position of trust which he so flagrantly abused. This type of business has to be deterred."

The ex-city official remained free on $5,000 bond pending appeal.

Mayer, 46, was indicted by a county grand jury last year on two counts of bribery involving payments of $52,091 from two architects, James Coppedge and Claflin A. Ballance.

Mayer claimed the money had been payment for private consulting he did more than 10 years ago, but he was found guilty April 20 in a nonjury trial.

The architects testified they paid Mayer in exchange for obtaining multi-million dollar projects.

Mayer was named planning director in 1969 after having worked at planning departments in Arcadia, Pasadena and Newport Beach.

Safety car

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Southern California firm is one of two given contracts to build 34 cars which might be forerunners of fuel-efficient autos of the 1980s.

The Transportation Department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration Thursday awarded the contracts to Minicars Inc. of Goleta, Calif., for $5.9 million and to Calspan Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., for $5.6 million.

The experimental cars are to get 29 miles per gallon or more, have low pollution, weigh less than 3,000 pounds and permit survival of occupants in 50 mile-per-hour head-on crashes.

Each company will build 17 vehicles. Crash-testing by an independent contractor will begin next year.

Calspan, with Chrysler Corp. as a major subcontractor, will develop a 2,700-pound compact car expected to travel 29 miles on a gallon of gas. Minicars will build a 2,150-pound subcompact expected to get 34 mpg.

Cal Poly grads

Degrees will be presented to 2,181 students, 1,897 undergraduates and 294 graduates during Cal Poly's commencement exercises on Saturday.

Two ceremonies will be held, at 11 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. This is done so students may individually receive their diplomas as their names are announced to relatives and friends.

Receiving degrees during the morning will be students in the schools of agriculture, business administration and engineering. Receiving degrees during the afternoon will be students in the schools of arts, environmental design and science.

Deans of each Cal Poly school will confer degrees on the graduates. They are Tony J. Cunha, agriculture, Beaumont Davidson, engineering, Reed M. Powell, business administration, Gertrude C. Boland, arts, Frederick Koeper, environmental design, and Vincent Parker, science.

Hugh O. La Bounty Jr., executive vice president, will award diplomas to master degree candidates during both ceremonies.

Preceding graduation, at 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., schools will hold receptions for their graduates, families and friends.

Academy services

American Christian Academy of Pomona will conduct its fourth annual commencement exercise tonight at 7 in the auditorium of the Central Baptist Church.

Graduation theme will be "First in Century Three."

Cynthia Kevorkian will deliver the valedictorian address. The salutatorian address will be given by Dianna Bartle.

The Rev. Roland Rasmussem, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, Canoga Park, will give the commencement sermon. The Rev. Ray Batema, founder of the American Christian Academy, and Wayne Temple, principal, will award diplomas. Other pastors whose children are in the graduating class, will assist.

The graduating seniors are Dan Allphin, David Mitchell, Pam Stone, and Paul Westerdale, Pomona; Dawn Price, Upland; Jim Deaton, Ann Estel, Greg Hammond, Betsy Martinich, Bonnie Milligan and David Williams, Ontario; Terry Balliet, Kim Davis, Dianna Bartle and Linda Stephenson, Montclair; Debbie Burgeson, Covina; Vicki Casey, LaVerne; Carla Rea, Riverside; Linda Zahler, Chino; Alison Escobar, Whittier; and Cynthia Kevorkian, Glendora.

Ask why lawmen didn't probe crash

Pair's injuries not fatal; both lived 2 days after plane went down

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — Authorities are trying to discover why sheriff's deputies did not check out a telephone call from an eyewitness who said he saw what turned out to be a plane crash that killed two persons.

Quick action may have saved the lives of the pair aboard the plane. They lived for a day or two after the May 23 crash, according to County Coroner Don Hines, but their bodies weren't found for nine days.

"They might have been saved if there was help. They survived one or maybe two days," Hines said Thursday.

"It's awful. It's sad," said Richard Manzer, the eyewitness who said Thursday that he saw an orange glow in the sky about the same time a single-engine plane crashed and burned near La Cuesta summit, a small mountain. It was headed from Coalinga to Santa Monica.

One victim, Sue Saniels, a 25-year-old UCLA employee, limped a half-mile on an injured leg before she died. The other person, Jacques Rene Tromeur, a 31-year-old UCLA student, had a broken leg. Neither had injuries serious enough to cause death, Hines said. Autopsies attributed the deaths to shock.

Manzer, 26, has filed a complaint against the sheriff's department for failing to investigate his report.

Acting sheriff Timothy Storton confirmed that Manzer's call was received, and said he had begun an investigation into why it was not followed up.

Manzer said he believed what he saw was insignificant until he heard a radio report of the crash nine days later.

After calling a radio station to confirm the time and place of the crash, Manzer said, "I realized then that, oh my God, what I'd seen was the explosion of the plane, the flash of light."

So much for Carter's tax package

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of President Carter's energy tax package is in a shambles following a flurry of House Ways and Means Committee votes that handed the administration a major defeat.

The influential committee voted Thursday to throw out Carter's plans for a standby gasoline tax, a tax on cars that get poor mileage and a program of rebates for people who buy cars that get good mileage.

But the administration is looking for some of the decisions to be reversed, and still is holding out hope for a stiff tax on crude oil.

"We will probably re-evaluate our position when we get to the Senate," said Laurence Woodworth, Carter's assistant treasury secretary for tax policy, after watching the committee administer the first of the three defeats on Thursday.

Still to come is consideration of what some in the Carter administration view as the most important part of the President's tax package: a new tax on crude oil designed to make energy more expensive and thus force conservation. This would result in an estimated 7.6-cent hike in the cost of a gallon of gasoline.

Whatever the committee does is subject to reconsideration by the committee itself as well as by the House and the Senate. But for the moment, the President's plan is listing badly.

In Thursday's action, the committee:

—Rejected, 27-10, Carter's proposed 50-cent per gallon standby tax on gasoline. The tax would have been imposed in five-cent a year increments only if gasoline conservation goals were not met.

—Rejected, 31-5, the President's plan to pay buyers of fuel-efficient cars up to $500 as a reward for energy conservation.

—Rejected, 24-13, Carter's plan to place a tax of up to $2,500 on cars that get poor gasoline mileage. By the same vote, the panel substituted its own tax, a watered-down version that would delay the tax until 1979 and then apply it only to the most wasteful cars.

Although Carter didn't request it, the committee voted 18 to 17 to take away the federal income tax deduction of state and local gasoline taxes. The deduction has been available only to those who itemize deductions. This plan, which passed the House two years ago but narrowly failed in the Senate, would cost drivers some $700 million more a year.

Another committee alternative to the Carter program did not fare so well. On a 25-11 vote the panel rejected an amendment by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., to raise the four-cent per gallon federal gasoline tax to seven cents next Jan. 1.

The additional money, more than $3 billion a year, would have been used for energy research and mass transit. The plan was rejected on a vote that for the most part split along rural-urban lines. The tax, said Rep. Jim Guy Tucker, D-Ark., was "an indiscriminate tax on those who can least afford it" — poor, rural residents who have no subway or bus service and have to depend on cars.

Carter leaning toward B1?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two critics of the much-debated B1 bomber project emerged from a meeting today with President Carter to say they feel he is definitely leaning toward at least limited production of the costly airplane.

Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., told reporters that Carter made a cryptic reference to "secret information that he had not had before," which Drinan said he interpreted as an indication the President is preparing to make a case in behalf of the B1.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., agreed that Carter seemed likely to support at least part of the Air Force request for a $25 billion fleet of 244 B1s.

However, Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, told reporters, "I don't think there's any way to tell which way he (Carter) is leaning."

Carter, a campaign year critic of the B1, reiterated to the congressional delegation that "my inclination is to announce my decision before the end of this month."

"Following this meeting, I will probably pretty much go into seclusion and study what the information is and make a decision," he said.

Drinan also reported that Carter, at a Cabinet Room session with more than a dozen Senate and House critics of the bomber, disclosed that Secretary of Defense Harold Brown favors the project. Dellums said he did not hear such a statement.

At the start of the meeting, Carter said he had received much information from Brown about the B1 and also had heard from congressional backers of the program.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said he told Carter that the President's credibility is at stake in the decision.

"The point I stressed was that the nation's first line of defense is the credibility of its institutions and the credibility of its president," McGovern related. He noted that almost one year ago Carter told the Democratic National Convention's Platform Committee that the B1 was an exotic and costly plane that would add nothing to defense effectiveness.

ROBERT VESCO

Vesco told to get out of Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Financier Robert Vesco, a fugitive from U.S. charges of embezzlement and illegal political contributions, will leave his five-year-old haven in Costa Rica, President Daniel Oduber says.

"Many days ago I told Mr. Vesco that he should leave Costa Rica, and he is going to go," Oduber said in a radio-television broadcast Thursday night.

"I do not think he should leave hurriedly," said the second Costa Rican president stained by association with the controversial American. "He should put his affairs in order, and he is doing this. And he should clarify his situation before the courts of justice."

Vesco, who lives with his family at a walled-in, well-guarded home in a suburb of San Jose, was not available for comment. An aide at his office said: "To my knowledge, no statement has been issued by Mr. Vesco."

There was speculation that the 42-year-old financial manipulator would go to Panama or would return to the Bahamas, where he has holdings reportedly worth $50 million and where a court in 1973 rejected a U.S. request for his extradition.

Tests confirm arson in Ontario warehouse

State Fire Marshal's laboratory tests have confirmed the $1.3 million fire that destroyed a West Coast Industries warehouse in Ontario May 29 was deliberately set.

Ontario Fire Marshal Rick Lebel announced the tests were returned this week. Firemen suspected arson at the onset of the blaze, reported by an Ontario police officer. The warehouse is located in the 400 block of South Sultana Avenue.

The firemen initially reported at least two and possibly more fires were burning simultaneously in different parts of the building.

The fire raged for more than five hours, destroying expensive printed circuit boards, electronic equipment, and chemicals. More than 80 families were forced to evacuate their homes in the immediate area. Three firemen were injured in the blaze. One remains off duty yet with burns.

Lebel said fire inspections and preplanning possibly prevented further injuries to firemen. Firemen responding to the blaze remained outside of the building that was known to contain highly flamable and toxic materials.

West Coast Industries buys and sells large quantities of surplus electronics parts and industrial chemicals.

Fire inspectors and police today said that they are working to develop leads in the arson case.

Rejects industrial growth

Senate votes to keep air free of pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, nearing completion of work on a new set of clean air rules for automobiles and industries, today rejected a proposal to make it easier for plants to move into areas now free from air pollution.

It turned back, 70 to 17, an amendment by Sen. William Scott, R-Va., that backers of the bill said would have undermined a provision limiting industrial growth in areas that now have clean air.

The amendment was similar to one defeated by the Senate on Thursday that would have eased air quality standards in the vicinity of national parks.

Scott argued that the standards in the bill were too rigid and would not give states enough opportunity to decide where to permit new growth within their own borders.

Late Thursday, the Senate voted 56 to 38 to extend a tightening of auto-exhaust standards, now set to take effect on 1978 model cars, until 1980.

It was a major setback for the auto industry, which had hoped the Senate would go along with the longer delays and looser tailpipe emission standards contained in legislation that has passed the House.

Backers of tougher auto standards voted by the Senate today described the action as a victory for President Carter's energy program, coming on the same day when other parts of that program suffered defeats at the hands of House committees.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that tougher controls on auto pollution will make it easier to pass the part of the administration energy plan dealing with industrial conversions to coal.

The administration called for increasing coal-use by two-thirds by 1985, mostly by requiring power plants that now burn scarce oil and natural gas in their boilers to switch to coal.

Without an accompanying reduction of auto emissions, the extra pollution given off by increased burning of coal might have run afoul of clean air standards, Jackson maintained.

Two women hurt in Pomona crash

Two women were injured slightly early Thursday afternoon in a two-car collision at Foothill Boulevard and Towne Avenue, Pomona police reported. The women, Mary L. Wooten, 73, of Montclair, and Regina R. Sheridan, 20, of Pomona, both said they would seek medical attention later, officers reported.

Boy knocked unconscious; jail suspect

A 17-year-old student at Claremont High School was knocked unconscious at the school early Thursday afternoon when he apparently was attacked for no reason while engaged in a friendly wrestling match with friends, police reported.

Police later arrested a suspect in the incident, 18-year-old Christopher Giannos, of 1832 Hanover Road, Claremont, and booked him on suspicion of felonious assault.

The victim, Vuong Duc Nguyen, was kicked in his head by an outsider while he was on the ground, witnesses told police. He was aided by county paramedics and taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was released after treatment.

Parolee held in sexual attacks on girls 12, 13

A 34-year-old parolee is being held in connection with sexual attacks last week on two young girls in Claremont, police said today.

The suspect, Ronald Edwin White, of La Verne, is accused of raping a 12-year-old girl and molesting her companion, 13. The incident occurred the night of June 2.

Police reported that the girls were walking a dog when a man, armed with a revolver, forced them into a citrus grove at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue and attacked them. White was arrested several days later.

Investigators said a hold has been placed on him by state parole authorities. They said he has a previous conviction involving sex offenses against young girls.

To keep tabs on interest rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's anti-inflation agency will begin immediatedy to monitor interest rates in the economy, a spokesman said today.

Nerves frayed in terrorist siege

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP) — "We live for the moment. We don't think about the future," said the young Dutch woman, shaking with nerves, as she spoke to reporters on behalf of the 51 persons held hostage by South Moluccan terrorists aboard a train in northern Holland.

"Waking in the night alone and afraid is the worst, you just want to talk about anything to anyone," said a gray-haired man, his eyes rimmed with red from the strain.

"But we agree completely with the way the government is handling the situation."

"For the first few days we were very aggressive, we were afraid and wanted to hit out at anyone," said a third relative.

"Now we are not so aggressive. Now we wait and hope that all will end peacefully. But it's been a long time, and we are starting to worry again."

The sieges of the train eight miles outside Groningen and of a village school where more South Moluccans are holding four teachers, are 19 days old, and no end is sight. About 35 relatives of the hostages on the train are staying at two Groningen hotels. They meet during the day at a government reception center set up for them on the second floor of the town's neo-gothic railway station.

Fearful of touching off retaliation against their captive kin, the relatives refused to identify themselves or to discuss in detail feeling toward the clusters of South Moluccan families who dot this area.

The young woman said feeling "comes and goes in emotional waves, but things have not changed all that much" between the two communities.

"Our people are still able to keep things in perspective to a great extent," she said.

Eight to 10 armed South Moluccans took over the train on May 23 at 9:30 a.m. as it was traveling between Assen and Groningen with about 100 passengers. Many jumped off the train when they realized what was happening. The terrorists released other they thought might become a burden. Most of the families of those held on board heard the news on the radio that Monday morning.

"I was at work," the grayhaired man said. "My wife called and I went straight home. We called other members of the family and friends and waited to hear if our relative was among those kept or was set free by the gunmen.

"When it came to midnight and we had not heard anything, we contacted the authorities."

"It has been good to have other families around us," the man added.

"We have formed a friendship in fear, but a friendship which will prove stronger than other relationships."

ACQUITTED ON SOME CHARGES Leonora Prerez, 32, left, and Filipina Narciso, 30, two Filipino nurses accused of killing and poisoning patients at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital in 1975, smile broadly on steps of U.S. courthouse in Detroit after a federal judge directed a verdict of acquittal on some murder and poisoning charges. The judge said, however, the jury must decide remaining charges.

Owner of dirty store jailed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unsanitary conditions in a downtown grocery store have resulted in the jailing of the owner and the closure of the store for two weeks by order of a Municipal Court commissioner.

Commissioner Meyer Newman issued the orders Thursday after finding that Roberto Lee, owner of the Eastern Grocery, violated probation from an earlier case, in which dead mice and rodent droppings were found in the store.

Cite 'distinctive' Claremont

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The distinctive quality of Claremont was cited this week as past president Stanley Larson installed Claremont High School Principal John Mann as president of the Claremont Coordinating Council.

Council members had luncheon at the Broken Loaf Restaurant at the School of Theology, and then were taken on a tour of the facilities by Williard Hunter, assistant to the president.

Larson called council members "the busy people in the community, being swamped and overwhelming in the responsibilities and yet giving of thoughtful time. They don't say to give the job to someone else."

Larson said that lack of attendance at council luncheons is not because of lack of interest. He cited the distinctive quality of the community.

"We're not better than anyone else," he said. "We have things here that are precious we don't want to give up."

He told of his campaign to keep Oak Park Cemetery open, and that the cemetery was given to the city 77 years ago. "But I must justify that the city wants its cemetery," he said.

JOHN MANN

He told of his personal involvement in the development of Memorial Park, but said that Oak Park Cemetery is "truly our memorial park."

"In Claremont we take time to say that we take our values seriously," he said. "A person must take a determined stand on what he believes."

He stressed that everything that gives quality to Claremont was instituted by the Claremont Coordinating Council in its early days.

"It is not easy to find new frontiers in a community that has had a coordinating council 44 years," he said.

He mentioned that the council was formed by Kenyon Scudder, a noted penologist.

Other officers elected to serve starting in October are Catherine Griffith, first vice-president and program chairman; Carol Vandegraft, second vice-chairman and membership chairman; Jane Parrott, corresponding secretary; Dwight Smith, recording secretary; and Kris Blay, treasurer.

Larson thanked the following retiring officers for their "continued diligence": Judy Kern, president; Mann, first vice-president; Gus Kitterle, second vice-president; Kay Griffith, corresponding secretary; Paula Anderson, recording secretary; and Kris Blay, treasurer.

Peter Scott of the county Department of Community Services, representing Supervisor Peter Schabarum, gave Mrs. Kern a certificate.

Political arena

Legislation authored by ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-Covina, to speed up acquisition of property along the Foothill Freeway (State Highway 30) from Route 210 in San Dimas to Route 15 near Fontana, was approved Tuesday by the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means and sent to the House floor.

The measure, co-authored by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland, requires the California Highway Commission to cooperate with local entities by authorizing Caltrans to acquire those parcels in the right-of-way which meet "hardship" criteria.

According to McVittie, the state currently has acquired $2.4 million in right-of-way, with an estimated $7.7 million worth of property remaining to be purchased.

"The completion of the Foothill Freeway is presently up in the air, but this step will reinforce our desire to see this link proceed in an orderly fashion.

"It also puts Caltrans and the state Highway Commission on notice we want this freeway completed as originally planned."

SEN. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-Hacienda Heights, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Fire Services, has scheduled two hearings late this month on the problem of arson in California.

The hearings are the first step in a comprehensive examination of this "serious and rapidly growing crime, a crime whose causes need to be examined more closely and for which more effective remedies need to be found," said Campbell.

Over the last decade, incendiary building fires nationwide increased 325 per cent, more than any other type of serious crime.

In San Francisco, Campbell said, the increase has been well above this average for the same period, and the incidence for the state as a whole has increased steadily over the years.

The first of the hearings is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. June 29 in the Department of Health Building in Los Angeles. The second will be held at 9:30 a.m. June 30 in the Health Building Auditorium in San Francisco.

Air crash hero faces lengthy recovery

Burned over 40% of body; respiratory damage feared

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The attempt by a young Upland man to save the lives of five victims killed in an aircraft crash Tuesday has made him a hero.

The attempt has also left Richard Rothschild, 20, who lives in the apartment complex struck by the plane, in critical condition in the burn center at the San Bernardino County General Hospital.

Rothschild suffered second and third degree burns over 40 per cent of his upper body and faces surgery now as a part of his long recuperation.

In addition to the torso burns, there is a great concern about burns to the trachea and, perhaps, his lungs, according to Rothschild's sister, Myra Hoven of Pomona.

Rothschild, who works the night shift at Frito Lay Corp. in Cucamonga, was returning home from work when he saw the plane in trouble at about 7:30 a.m. When the plane hit the apartments at 1051 Springfield St., Rothschild rushed to the plane to help the victims.

According to witnesses, Rothschild stopped when another man warned that the plane was starting to explode. But he was caught in the fire.

Joel Oakford, a fellow worker at Frito Lay, has started a fund to assist Rothschild in his medical care.

A vital service, in which the family is seeking help, is a continuing need for blood. Donors must contribute in San Bernardino County in able to have the credit given to Rothschild's account.

The American Association of Blood Banks, 399 Bloodbank Road, San Bernardino, is open Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. It is open until 6:30 p.m. on Thursday.

Donors may also give to Rothschild's account on June 23 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Ontario YMCA, 215 W. C St., or the Kaiser Steel Corp.'s recreation hall, on June 28, from 2 to 5 p.m.

According to Mrs. Hoven, Rothschild is unable to speak very well, but he has muttered "It's been a nightmare."

The five passengers in the plane were killed and three other apartment house residents injured as a result of the crash.

Cause of the early morning crash remains under investigation.

Rule mistrial in disruption case

A West Valley Municipal Court jury Thursday became deadlocked in the case of an Ontario man accused of disrupting an Ontario City Council meeting on Jan. 4.

Judge Jacob Jager then declared a mistrial. The jury members had voted 9 to 3 for conviction. Jose Parrilla of Ontario was the defendant.

Police had arrested Parrilla on orders of Mayor Paul Treadway, after Parrilla reportedly walked into a council meeting holding a sign.

During the meeting, Parrilla walked in front of the council with the placard and began shouting at council members, said police.

At the mayor's direction, officers escorted Parrilla outside the chambers and made the arrest. The mayor had previously warned him he would be arrested if he continued to disrupt the meeting.

During the trial, Treadway testified that Parrilla was disrupting the meeting with his actions.

But Councilman Robert Able — called first as a prosecution witness and then as a defense witness — said he didn't think Parrilla had disrupted the meeting.

Jesse Stein, the defense attorney, argued his client was merely exercising his First Amendment right (freedom of speech) in voicing his opinion.

The attorney said his client, although reluctantly, did follow the mayor's orders to sit down and move away from the front of the chambers.

$100,000 pledged to Marshall

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

In something of a surprise move, Pomona school board Thursday night reached consensus to earmark approximately $100,000 in building fund reserves for Marshall Junior High School cafeteria.

The reserve would provide only a base from which to begin collecting funds — from whatever sources the board can find — to foot the bill for the approximately $500,000 multipurpose room. Still, establishment of the account was not anticipated by those attending Thursday's meeting in the Education Center board room.

The consensus was reached following a brief but heated shouting match between board President Don Donnelly and Mr. and M s. James Valentine, members of the Marshall parents' group which turned out to show support for the cafeteria.

The outburst came during a discussion of the sale of old and obsolete equipment when the Valentines began — cheered on somewhat by their audience — to question where the money from the sale of such equipment would go.

Said Valentine, "You're discussing spending money and I want to know why we can't get an answer to the Marshall cafeteria question right now."

Mrs. Valentine said, "They are discussing things that my tax money went to pay for and I want to know where that money is going."

Punctuating his remarks with raps of the gavel, an angry Donnelly yelled at Valentine, "That is not under discussion now. You are out of order."

With that, Donnelly called for a recess in the proceedings to give those involved an opportunity to regain their composure.

Throughout the evening, matters under discussion on the floor were subject to raucous commentary by members of the Marshall group.

The decision to set aside the $100,000 came following a budgetary mixup in which Supt. Charles Carpenter and Assistant Supt. for Business Lynn Rountree were unable to agree on whether or not the district even had the money in the first place.

The $100,000 is money left over from the bonds which paid for the Armstrong Elementary School multipurpose building. Rountree told trustees that original financing for the building had come from the general fund but had eventually been reimbursed by the building fund monies.

It was never made clear in which fund the present $100,000 was located or, for that matter, the exact amount available.

Said trustee Eugene Whitlock, "It says $100,000 here, but knowing Mr. Rountree I wouldn't be surprised if it were more like $125,000."

Trustee C. J. Mendoza said, "As a person who spent 10 years as a teacher and counselor huddling against the rain at Marshall I would like to see us take every step possible — if it is at all budgetarily possible — to move toward construction of the cafeteria."

Trustee C. Allen Braswell said, "In finance we must first spend revenue for the programs for which the revenue was collected. Then, after we have spent that money, if there is any additional surplus revenue we can direct that toward capital improvements.

"I believe by making cuts we can still carry on our programs and by using the $150,000 in either of Mr. Rountree's pockets, still have sufficient funds to accommodate the construction of the cafeteria."

Braswell said he would later have suggestions on possible cuts in the budget to be made.

Upland looks gift horse in mouth

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland city officials want "to see the offer in writing" before they become too excited over a $2.2 million grant announced Thursday by the Economic Development Administration in Washington, D.C.

Upland's share of the $14.6 million grant to San Bernardino County and five county cities is "10 times more than we asked," according to Michael Matlock, administrative specialist.

"Congressman Lloyd's office in Washington called Wednesday to give us an advanced tip," Matlock added. "But we decided to keep the information under wraps until we knew more."

Matlock said this morning that while nothing concrete would be done until official word was received, the city is prepared to have one project underway almost immediately and could have a second one ready to go within the required time.

A provision of the grant is that all projects must be under construction within 90 days of the awarding of the grant or the funds will be revoked.

Upland has submitted a request for $258,000 to construct a third city fire station on Benson Avenue north of 13th Street.

Because the city fathers were unsure about the possibility of obtaining the grant, they have included $100,000 in the city's 1977-78 fiscal budget for the construction of a permanent equipment room and temporary living quarters on the site. This budget has not been adopted formally.

Matlock said that the city has spent $10,000 to complete plans and specifications for the new fire station.

"It would only take us about 30 days to put it out to bid," he said, "so the time factor is no problem here."

In the past, the city staff has been concerned about the need to replace the shop building in the city yards which has been sinking into the ground.

"With concentrated effort, we could have plans ready for this project," added Matlock. He said he would not "even venture a guess" at the cost of replacing this facility or the possibility of renovating other buildings in the city yards which are also cracking.

"Our discussions about the buildings at the city maintenance yards have been informal," Matlock explained.

Study 2 DB high school sites

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Reports on two proposed high school sites in Diamond Bar, both with an estimated development cost of $3 million, have been presented to the Pomona school board.

Former trustee Ken Pine of Diamond Bar presented reports on the two sites, one at the northeast corner of the Pomona Freeway and Golden Springs Drive and the other in Sycamore Canyon north of Grand Avenue on the east side of Diamond Bar Boulevard.

Both sites are in Diamond Bar outside the boundaries of the city of Pomona.

Pine told the board that site one at Golden Springs and the freeway is a 43.5 gross acre site which would yield the district 34.5 to 36.5 usable acres depending on which grading plan is used.

Officials of the Transamerica Development Co., developers of Diamond Bar, told the board a decision on that site would be required quickly as it has already had a letter of intent filed on it and is ready to go into escrow for developers who wish to build residential units there.

Pine said the cost of the land at site one — the money which would go to Transamerica — would be $978,750. Officials from Transamerica estimate the total development cost of the site at $2,930,595.

Pine said site two on Diamond Bar Boulevard north of Grand Avenue consists of 60 gross acres of which 43.5 would be usable. The configuration for this site, however, is more of a narrow rectangle than that of site one.

The total land cost for site two — again the money paid Transamerica, said Pine — would be $484,000. Pine said Transamerica officials estimated the total make-ready cost of site two at $3,008,355.

Pine said both sites were already well equipped with roads, some street lighting and storm drains. He said the first site at Golden Springs and the freeway may eventually have improved ties to the Phillips Ranch through new roads.

Pine cautioned the board that a decision should be made soon because "land is the only thing they're not making anymore of."

He said although site one has a higher land sale purchase price, it has a lower development cost.

$1.1 million OIA expansion

An Upland construction company has been awarded a $1.1 million contract to expand the passenger terminal at the Ontario International Airport (OIA).

Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners awarded the contract to Berry Construction, Inc., lowest of six bidders for the project.

It calls for the addition of 10,000 square feet to the terminal, plus improvements to the existing structure.

Included will be a new passenger waiting area at the east end of the terminal and the extension of the main lobby out to the boarding area.

Air conditioning will be improved and the carpeting and ceiling of the terminal will be replaced.

Cashion-Horie, Inc., Pomona, developed plans.

A $391,000 grant from the U. S. Department of Commerce partially will finance the project.

'Juneteenth' festival set June 19

Pomona Neighborhood Adult Participation Project (NAPP) is sponsoring it's annual "Juneteenth" Parade and festival June 19, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The parade will begin at 11 a.m. on the Pomona Mall and will be followed by a festival at Ganesha Park. The festival will be reigned over by Mr. and Miss Black Pomona and Grand Marshall Clarence Muse. Music, games, exhibits, and food will be available.

"Juneteeth" is the celebration marking the "emancipation day for blacks in Texas."

Cal State SB graduation

The 11th annual commencement of Cal State San Bernardino will be at 9:30 a.m., Saturday on the south lawn near the gymnasium.

Approximately 814 students are candidates for graduation, 632 for bachelor's degrees and 182 for master's degrees.

The college will award its first master of public administration and bachelor of vocational education degrees.

Since Cal State has one commencement for the year, the participants include summer 1976, fall and winter graduates and candidates for degrees at the conclusion of the spring quarter.

The traditional reception for graduates and guests will be held in the gymnasium following ceremonies.

Why does an accountant join Screen Actors Guild?

Can a college administrator find happiness as a movie actor?

Mike Rothman, assistant treasurer and budget director at Claremont Men's College, says it's possible, but he'd rather keep his present job.

Rothman has been able to compare the two careers — he's recently completed a major role in a Paramount movie which is now being released in Southern California.

Rothman claims no "real interest in acting" and said his role as Cochise, the side-kick of the leading actor in the movie, "Citizen Band," resulted from a college acquaintance.

MIKE ROTHMAN

The college administrator graduated from CMC in 1972. He was a campus friend of Paul Brinkman, who wrote the screenplay.

When the movie was about to be cast, Brinkman called Rothman and said the script had an ideal role for him. Rothman met with the producer and director.

"I didn't realize I'd gotten the part until the director said he'd see me on location," reports Rothman.

"Location" turned out to be five weeks in the Marysville and Yuba City area, representing a small town locale.

"I had no trouble getting into the Screen Actor's Guild in order to qualify for the role as an actor," reports Rothman. "And the regular actors, many with years of experience, were great."

Rothman says the cast spends a great deal of time "just talking with each other" since sometimes a whole day passes without a member being in front of the cameras.

The movie was produced in October which meant that Rothman was away from CMC at a busy time.

"Part of the time was my vacation, and the rest, the college managed to help out by others taking over some of my duties," recalls the director. "Everyone here at Claremont was great."

While Rothman said he "really had a ball" he's decided that an acting career is probably not really the job he wants.

But he's keeping up his membership in the Screen Actor's Guild "just in case."

Score one for fair trade

High marks for economic diplomacy are due the Japanese and American negotiators who forged the just-concluded agreement limiting exports of Japanese color television sets to this country.

For President Carter, who has been accused of all style and no substance in the accomplishments of his administration so far, the agreement was a happy combination of both that bodes well for the course of relations with all our other trading partners — and the term "partners" is the correct one.

At stake was and is nothing less than this country's commitment to the principle of the freest possible international trade with the fewest possible artificial barriers and restrictions. The government had long been under pressure from the television industry, and continues to be under pressure from shoe, textile, steel and other industries, to raise or impose tariffs or establish quotas to stem the flood of foreign products.

On the one hand is the undeniable fact that cheaper foreign imports have cost thousands of American workers their jobs — an estimated 70,000 in the television industry alone — and forced many manufacturers out of business (though at the same time giving American consumers better bargains than they would otherwise have had).

On the other hand is the equally inescapable fact that the erection of trade barriers by one country inevitably leads to protectionist countermeasures by others in a process from which nobody benefits. All countries must trade to live, some more than others, and one country's temporary advantage over another — whether because of artificial barriers or superior technology or lower labor costs — can ultimately be self-defeating.

That the Japanese recognized this is shown by their voluntarily agreeing to reduce their exports of completed and partially assembled TV units to the United States from last year's 2.96 million to 1.75 million over the next three years. This is a substantial reduction, better than 40 per cent.

Concurrent with the signing of the agreement was the announcement by the Japanese government that it will encourage its electronic manufacturers to invest in plants in the United States — which means more jobs for American workers.

With the agreement in hand, the Carter administration will now undertake to persuade other countries to sign similar voluntary agreements limiting their exports. For their best interests and ours, it is to be hoped that the U.S.-Japan accord becomes the model and standard for the future.

Lindy's other trip earns tribute

Celebration of the 50th anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's epic flight across the Atlantic continues. As part of it, his cross country barnstorming tour, undertaken in the "Spirit of St. Louis" shortly after his triumphant return to the United States, will be recreated by the Experimental Aircraft Association Foundation.

Lindbergh's 1927 tour was completed in three months and three days and included stops in 82 cities in each of the then 48 states. According to aviation historians, it did nearly as much to launch the nation into the new age of commercial aviation as did his solo transoceanic crossing.

Beginning with a June 15 takeoff from Long Island, N.Y., the 1977 tour, using a replica of the "Spirit of St. Louis" built by the foundation and piloted by members of the Experimental Aircraft Association, will take 4½ months. Although 20 extra stops have been added, the commemorative tour will closely approximate Lindbergh's original route around the country.

An interesting footnote, especially in view of Lindbergh's lifelong interest in the environment, is the fact that the original "Spirit" was powered with lead-free gasoline. Appropriately, the replica flight will also use lead-free fuel.

There is one thing the foundation could not duplicate, however: Lindbergh and his backers invested $15,000 in the original "Spirit;" its modern-day counterpart cost approximately $100,000 to build.

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

Why is it that we can ask help for someone else with a freer spirit than we can for ourselves? Is it because we know our own shortcomings and feel unworthy of help — though we need it desperately?

Many of our personal problems stem from feeling we aren't quite up to par. Our self-esteem sags out of sight when we think of asking for help, or telling someone we have a problem. But the thing we do not realize is that if everyone received help in accordance with what they deserve there would be total chaos. Instead of lingering over the idea of what we are worth by the way of past performance, we should be making this moment count for something — and there's nothing wrong with asking for help to do it.

Arbitration plan needs study

Dear Editor:

In the past several years, the public sector of employes has become more and more aware that it is at a disadvantage when it comes to wages and salaries. There has been a clamor for some form of compulsory and binding arbitration for quite some time. I believe that the issue needs to be aired openly and that the public has a right to be informed relative to the particular features of compulsory and binding arbitration for public employes.

First of all one should look at the various areas where such agreements have been put into effect. Almost universally it has created problems for the taxpayers. The basic reason that it does cause problems is that someone not at all responsible to the local taxpayers has the authority to impose higher taxes upon the local area for wages, salaries, and benefits. A few years ago, Senate Bill 90 was passed and signed into law limiting the amount of taxes that can be imposed without a public vote. Compulsory and binding arbitration would tend to change the effect of SB 90.

I would recommend that each person examine the issue very carefully and then write to his local assemblyman or state senator and let them know the person's feelings about such an issue.

Special justice for justices

WASHINGTON — Inside the Corinthian temple that houses the nation's highest court, the nine black-robed men behind the great mahogany bench are Olympian. Yet they are as vulnerable to petty larceny, apparently, as the lesser mortals who inhabit Washington.

The taxpayers provide the Supreme Court, for example, with a carpentry shop to repair the judicial furniture and maintain the woodwork. Some distinguished justices are not above using the court carpenters, however, to handle their personal woodwork.

Under the direction of chief carpenter Edward F. Douglas, the official woodworkers have used the taxpayers' lumber and facilities to construct and repair furniture for the jurists. No less than white-maned Chief Justice Warren Burger himself has used the carpentry shop to make picture frames for his wife and her friends.

Taken separately, the carpentry work done for individual justices perhaps has been trivial. But there was an almighty uproar in Washington over a set of valances that FBI carpenters built for FBI chief Clarence Kelley. Supreme Court justices presumably should be as pure as FBI directors.

We have been given several examples of the misuse of the court carpenters. Here are just a few cases that we have been able to confirm from independent witnesses:

— The carpentry shop personnel built a coffee table for Justice Harry Blackmun's wife. She purchased the mosaic topping, however, with her own money.

— When Justice William Brennan installed wall-to-wall carpeting in his home, he found that his doors were too long. Chief carpenter Douglas and a helper obligingly shortened the doors for him.

— The shop has built home bookcases for most of the justices, ostensibly to hold their law books, thus giving this particular home carpentry quasi-official status.

— Before Justice William O. Douglas retired, court carpenters were sent to his home to cut down cabinets and fix some molding. Justice Douglas, it should be added, is not related to carpenter Douglas.

— The chief carpenters constructed frames and mats for the personal pictures of the chief justice, his wife and friends. Later, carpenter Douglas wanted his son David to work for him in the carpentry shop. This sort of nepotism is forbidden by Civil Service regulations. Both Supreme Court Marshal Alfred Wong and personnel chief James Powers, therefore, refused to permit it. So Edward Douglas appealed to Chief Justice Burger who overruled the objections. Young David Douglas was quietly hired in violation of the Civil Service rules.

— What Edward Douglas has done for others he has also done for himself. Helping himself to the taxpayers' lumber, he has built a shelter and pier at his vacation place in Colonial Beach, Va.

We tried to discuss the carpentry scandal with the people whom our sources implicated. But if there's one thing the Supreme Court has learned from Watergate, it's how to stonewall.

We contacted the offices of everyone mentioned in our story. They either failed to return our calls or referred us to the court's public information officer, Barrett McGurn. He would say only that Edward Douglas had been a faithful employe of the court for 16 years, that his son David is on the payroll and that our charges are under study.

Then, with the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, McGurn refused further comment and wouldn't let us speak to anyone else.

FOOTNOTE: Our reporter Jonathan Bernstein, nevertheless, reached Edward Douglas at his home. The chief carpenter said he had spent his own time and used his own materials when he did work for the justices. This is disputed, however, by other witnesses. He admitted that he had taken some timbers — "good for nothing but firewood," he said — from the court for his personal pier. He denied all the other charges.

WASHINGTON WHIRL — It looks as if President Carter is welshing on another campaign promise. He got the endorsement of the National Education Association last year by promising to form a separate Department of Education. This would have to be carved out of the present Health, Education and Welfare Department, and HEW Secretary Joseph Califano doesn't want his empire broken up. He appears to have the ear of the President on this subject.

— The census taker who knocks at your door in 1980 may be your friendly neighborhood postman. Every 10 years, 150,000 census takers swarm across America to make an official count of the population. But Rep. Tom Steed, D.-Okla., has spoken quietly to budget boss Bert Lance about letting the postmen conduct the census in 1980. Lance likes the idea.

Our Man in Washington

No time to wait for a genius

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Out there somewhere is the genius that is going to save us from ourselves.

We are Americans. We can overcome any problem, there is no crisis too large for us to handle because we have the Edisons and Einsteins.

Every time we have needed solutions to either correct a shortcoming or quiet a crisis someone has appeared on the horizon to lead us through the difficult times.

There was always someone like Roosevelt or Wilson to see us through the wars and an Eisenhower to see us through the peace.

Of course, as of late our national leaders have fallen into some disfavor with the general populace, but there still is such an overriding confidence in this country that we need not worry over problems.

There is no need to worry because we will be saved by an individual or a group of individuals. Didn't Henry Kissinger keep peace almost alone despite Richard Nixon?

It is this we-can-conquer-all attitude that is keeping Americans from confronting directly the energy crisis, the environmental problems and the economic predicament.

As long as the majority wait around for the geniuses to come to our aide, as long as we wait for that good old Yankee ingenuity to come to the rescue, neither will ever happen.

We no longer live in a world where there is adequate incentive for genius to be stimulated. Government controls combined with a general lack of encouragement for individual enterprise has stifled the back yard laboratories that fostered much of our success.

Besides our success at overcoming crisis and problems was never the result of one individual's efforts, or even a group of individual efforts.

This country has never been greater than in those moments when we have pulled together.

We are now faced with a situation that demands confrontation. Our resources, though far from depleted, are diminishing at a rate which is alarming and our frontiers have nearly all been settled.

We are a nation that could always move to greener pastures that has now found there are no greener pastures.

It is time we stopped looking for leaders and began to take things into our own hands by demanding responsible government, conservation and progressive planning.

Detente set up with Congress

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite his intensifying conflict with Congress over domestic spending programs, President Carter has achieved a fragile detente with Capitol Hill on foreign policy determinations.

The mutual hostility and suspicion which characterized foreign policy discussions between the executive and legislative branches during the eight-year reign of Henry Kissinger has all but disappeared.

That is not to suggest that congressional critics who challenged every move Kissinger made have suddenly lost interest in foreign policy issues now that a Democrat is occupying the White House. The agonizing lesson of Vietnam is far too fresh for Congress to lapse into its old rubber stamp role.

Rather, Carter and his top foreign policy advisors — especially Secretary of State Cyrus Vance — have gradually convinced Congress that they are making a good faith effort to consult with key members of the House and Senate before crucial foreign policy decisions are made.

"Vance has practically worn a path between here and Foggy Bottom," said one staff aide for the House International Relations Committee. "If anything, there's almost been over-consultation," a Senate Foreign Relations Committee source said.

Especially significant was the meeting Vance held late last month with key members of both the Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees of the Senate, plus Democratic and Republican leaders of the full Senate, to discuss progress to date in the SALT talks.

The session, which cut across the usual jurisdictional lines of the Senate committee system, was chaired by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the most knowledgeable and adamant congressional critic of the first strategic arms limitation treaty.

Jackson, whose support will be critical if Carter is to obtain any viable public consensus behind a new SALT agreement, had been miffed to learn from the newspapers that Vance and the Soviet negotiators had achieved a framework for further bargaining in their recent Geneva talks after Carter had personally assured congressional leaders the secretary of state would be making no new American proposals.

With other "hawks" from the Armed Services Committee, Jackson let Vance know, in no uncertain terms, that senators who will have to ratify any new SALT treaty which might be negotiated expect to be kept abreast of all new developments in the future. Vance promised to comply with the request.

The State Department has been careful to keep the appropriate members of the House and Senate fully apprised of evolving administration policies in most other areas, especially where Cuba and the Panama Canal are concerned. And on Africa, our sources report, the administration has relied heavily on congressional input in developing its new policies.

There have been some notable foul-ups, particularly on the politically sensitive issue of the Middle East. For more than two weeks, Israel and its powerful friends in the Senate were in a dither over Carter's attempts to put new restraints on U.S. arms transfers — a policy that initially provided no special exception for Israel.

"That was our worst mistake," one State Department official conceded. "But it was basically a problem of communication, not intent, and we got it unscrambled eventually."

There is still some resistance within the State Department to the Carter administration's calculated political decision to involve Congress more deeply than ever before in the formulation of American foreign policy.

"Our toughest job is right here in the department," said one congressional liaison officer for State. "There are still a lot of bureaucrats who don't trust the Hill and who think that only our African experts, for example, really understand the problems of Zaire.

"Well, the fellows in Congress may not follow every intricacy of Shaba province the way the African Bureau does, but they sure as hell know what will float with the American public. And both Vance and Carter understand the importance of that kind of expertise."

Ann Landers

Wife liked to be slapped

Dear Ann Landers: Re your recent column in the Dallas Times Herald:

When did I stop beating my wife? It was when I realized she provoked me because she wanted to suffer. Slapping her around seemed to satisfy her temporarily, but it wasn't a permanent solution.

In answer to L.T.L.'s recommendation that "a bit of battering can be a good thing," don't be suckered into it. Some women drive a man up the wall because they know they'll get hit. Then they can feel sorry for themselves and make HIM look bad. I know all about this sort of thing — first-hand. I'm signing myself — H.I.N.O. (Husband In Name Only)

Dear Husband: Sounds like a gorgeous marriage you two have. As my grandmother used to say — there's somebody for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I enjoy a wide range of friends — some social, some business. The diversity adds spice to our lives and to theirs. More than a few are plenty overweight.

Surprisingly, many of them have one thing in common — the ability or unconscious desire to embarrass a slim person while eating at a restaurant or at a home.

My doctor tells me I'm in excellent health — also my weight and food selection is good. Yet I am subject to the following comments:

1. How do you stay so thin?
2. Is that all you eat? No wonder you're skinny. You don't eat anything.
3. Oh, you MUST try some of my dish, it is so delicious!
4. Don't tell me that's all you WANT to eat. Why are you afraid of gaining a pound?

To turn the tables would be rude. Here are some examples:

1. How DO you stay so fat?
2. No wonder you're overweight, just look at how much you eat!
3. I chose this dish from the menu because I like it. Keep your own food.
4. Go ahead and eat the third helping. I see you don't watch your weight.

Please tell me how to handle this. I am almost always coerced into eating more than I want, with the resulting discomfort. Gratefully — Slim, Slandered And Sometimes Stuffed!

Dear S.S. and S.S.: God gave you two ears for just such occasions as the ones you describe. Let the little barbs go in one and out the other, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: How can I teach my children — eight, six and five years of age — good table manners when their grandfather eats like an animal?

Grampa came to live with us two years ago after he had a slight stroke. He spills things on the tablecloth, himself and others. When he has soup you can hear him in the next room — slurping away.

Last night our six-year-old began slurping his soup. When I corrected him he said, "Grampa does. it." What can I do? — A Mother

Dear M: You can put your nose back in joint and get your priorities straight. Respect for elders is more important than perfect table manners. The old gentleman's stroke undoubtedly has something to do with the way he eats.

Tell the kids Grampa is doing the best HE can and they should do the best THEY can.

Q. "Growers of cultivated pearls in Japan use women for divers. Isn't that because women can hold their breath under water longer than men can?"

A. No, men in general can hold their breath longer. But women are better insulated usually to longer endure the water temperatures.

A. On snazzy Bellevue Avenue in Newport, R.I.

Was none other than Will Cuppy who noted: "Aries persons possess great executive ability and almost always get along, if they have plenty of financial backing and lots of luck. They must guard against the tendency to step on the tips of umbrellas which are dragged along in front of them."

Seasoned Citizens recall that Frank Sinatra was an exceedingly thin young man, and not too tall, either. So they may be surprised to read the published report that he weighed 13½ pounds at birth. Hard to believe. Just don't know if that's true or one of those numerous wild lines that leaped with alarcity 35 years ago from the fertile minds of the publicity boys. Will check further.

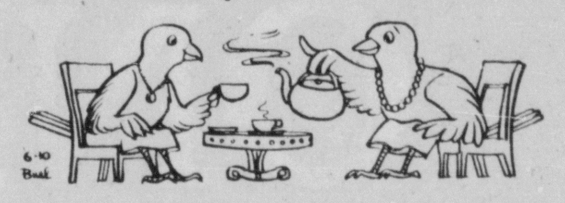

The word "platinum" was named by Spaniards who discovered it in the 18th century along Colombia's Rio Pinto, so called it "platina del pinto." Platina translates "little silver."

Dr. Miller

Maybe the 'he' really a 'she'

DEAR DR. MILLER: Clarabelle's six years old now, and I'm afraid her time is running out — I'd hoped she'd be able to raise some families — at least one. I got Cary when she was 2, and while they've obviously been in love all these years, well that's all that there is. I've never seen them act really passionate toward each other. Even if they were sly about it, nothing's ever happened, certainly not as far as offspring is concerned. They've had the best of recommended foods and care, and even nest-boxes.

Clarabelle cheeps a lot, so does Cary, but he's been a disappointment in one other respect — he's never really been a singer. My questions are: why hasn't he been, and, even more important, why haven't these two canaries (who've had everything) never raised a family? — E.A.

DEAR E.A.: Conceivably, Cary and Clarabelle canary couldn't — raise a family that is — because even love isn't enough, particularly if both canaries are female. Not all cage birds sold as being one sex or another are actually as represented. Should this, indeed, be the case, it could also explain why Cary didn't do so — sing as "he" should, that is.

DEAR DR. MILLER: If you're getting a puppy at six weeks of age, and you don't know whether it's been vaccinated or not, should you or shouldn't you give it distemper shots? — G.R.

DEAR G.R.: In my opinion it is preferable to give the first vaccine early, even though the puppy may have some protection remaining from its mother's milk. The degree of protection from the mother is the question. If not complete, the puppy could get distemper. Far better, I feel, to vaccinate a little too early than a little too late.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Even though chemicals might work, I'd prefer not to add them to my fish tank, if I can avoid it. What other approach can I use to handle the green algae problem? — G.B.

DEAR G.B.: You could relax and enjoy it. Some fish (mollies, for example) are at their best when plenty of green algae is available as a food. (Some fish prefer algae to any other food.) Strong sunlight's the best way to stimulate algae growth. Reverse the process by eliminating strong natural light and reducing artificial. A good filtration system would be one of the easiest ways to quickly clear your tank of the "green fog."

Burned up over smoking laws

Bad news for smokers swirled out of the state capital last week when the Assembly passed a bill banning smoking in California supermarkets. The bill, introduced by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, has now been coughed up to the Senate for action. If it filters through the higher house, you will no longer be able to puff your pipe or drag on a cigarette while you are buying beans and dog food and pinching melons and housewives.

Vasconcellos said the ban would be a boon to grocery checkers who have to stand all day in a fog bank of tobacco smoke created by shoppers. It was also observed that lettuce, tomatoes and other produce wilted under the blanket of blue. Heavy smokers are going to have to speed up their shopping, racing their grocery carts down the aisles, paying their property-tax-sized bill with trembling hands, and hurtling out into the open air to hastily light up and drag in that delightful (and deadly) lungful of nicotine. (I was interested to note that cigarette companies are required to put that "The surgeon general warns" notice not only on the pack, carton and ads, but even on ads that don't have anything to do with cigarettes. The announcements of the Kool Jazz Festival in San Diego all carried the surgeon general's warning, as did the notices of the Benson & Hedges Classic Film Series.)

The new law about not smoking in supermarkets (how about small, non-super markets?) will not affect me because I never go into a supermarket, anyway, except to buy cigarettes. I find that if you inhale a good deep lungful at the market door, you can keep it, filtering out gently as you dash to the tobacco counter and then to the checkout stand, and out onto the sidewalk again. Your cigarette will still be glowing on top of the trash bin where you left it. Calls for fast footwork and a good lung capacity.

Actually I recently gave up smoking. Pipe smoking, at any rate. The surgeon general and I became concerned over the condition of my mouth due to 30 years of pipe smoking, so I switched to cigarettes. My wife takes a dim view of this change not only because she thinks cigarette smoking is worse than pipe smoking, but also because I am now digging into her supply of cigarettes.

In the distant summer of my sophomore year in college I decided to take up cigarette smoking because I felt it was sort of dashing and debonair; it would perhaps give me status in the mature fraternity I ran with (as mature as a college sophomore ever gets) and possibly create some allure for the freshmen dolls at Smith and Mt. Holyoke. But it didn't take. The match burned my fingers, the cigarettes burned my mouth, my eyes watered and I coughed a lot. Neither my status with the sophomores nor my success with the college girls improved noticeably. So I gave up cigarettes, and some years later took up pipe smoking, which I found much more rewarding. Now I am dropping the pipe by tapering off on cigarettes, and my wife is hoping I don't get hooked on the coffin nails. (Is a pack a day being hooked?)

Cigarettes are terrible when you are used to a pipe. They are fragile, tasteless, impotent and gone in a flash. I can't type when smoking a cigarette; the smoke always gets in my eyes; the silly tube smoulders so rapidly I always burn my fingers and/or my lips. I don't think I'll be on the weed very long.

Who's got a match?

Lean meats fit diets

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a friend who won't eat red meats. She says that eating too much meat will cause cancer and that it causes heart disease too. I do know people who limit the amount of meat they eat because they are afraid of a heart attack.

Also, if meat contains so much fat how come people on some weight-losing diets eat lots of meat? I thought losing weight was good for you, that it would help you from having a heart attack.

DEAR READER — Some of what you say is true and some is not. In the first place meat does not cause cancer just because it is meat. There have been some suggestions that high protein diets may increase the chances of having cancer but the facts certainly don't permit such a sweeping conclusion. A study of the Mormons in Utah showed that they had less cancer of the digestive system than other Americans and they eat the same amount of red meat.

There has been some question about the preservatives used in some cured meats, particularly the nitrites used to prevent the growth of botulism, but the minimal amount used seems to be quite safe.

People think of meat as fat because of our tendency to eat marbled beef. The truth is that lean beef with all the visible fat removed contains less than 35 per cent of its calories as fat. That qualifies it to be used in reasonable amounts in low-fat diets. Round steak with all the visible fat removed is a good choice here. Of course how the meat is prepared does make a difference. If you cover it with a flour paste and fry it in fat the crust is likely to contain more fat than the meat. You can broil lean meats or cut away all the fat for a roast and have a fairly low-fat item. Often the fat in steaks with all the visible fat removed is less than the fat found in devil's food chocolate cake and many bakery items that people don't realize are really sources of fat in the diet.

To give you a better picture of the good and bad points about red meats I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-12, Red Meats: Good and Bad. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. It will give you more values for different types of meat and hamburger and cold cuts.

As The Health Letter I am sending you tells you, lean meat — the muscle part only — is really a low-calorie food. It is over 70 per cent water. A whole pound of the separable lean of round steak only contains a little more than 600 calories. That is the reason lean meats can be used on reducing diets. If you could stand it you could eat two whole pounds of lean round steak a day and consume only 1200 calories.

I think people often forget that a large part of the meat and other food they get is water. It is not all just fat, protein, and carbohydrates. Even butter is about 20 per cent water. Fat does contain very little water which is another reason why it contains so many calories.

Yes, keeping your weight down is usually helpful in preventing heart disease. For a meat dish I recommend alternating red meats, fish and poultry and using the lean products of all three.

Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Jacoby's bridge

Easy to win or to lose

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

It is a cinch to make four spades. It is almost as easy to lose the contract.

West leads the queen of hearts and the contract hinges on the very first play from dummy.

If you cover the queen with the king, East will win with the ace and lead a heart back. You will have to ruff and go after trumps. East will win the first trump with his king and lead another heart. You will have to ruff again.

West will win the next trump lead and lay down his jack of hearts. You will have to ruff for the third time and will be left with just one trump against West's two. West will score another trump trick and you will be left to complain about 4-1 trump breaks.

If you just let West's queen of hearts hold the first trick, the birds will sing for you. If West continues hearts dummy's 10 will knockout East's ace. You will ruff and go about your business without the need to ruff three times. If West shifts you will have even less trouble.

TOP LVC GRADUATES

La Verne College President Armen Sarafian congratulates Susan Fisher of Athens, Greece, and Thomas Baum of Claremont, summa cum laude graduates.

Summa cum laude LVC grads

Thomas Mark Baum of Claremont and Susan Fisher, a U.S. sailor stationed in Athens, Greece, were awarded summa cum laude bachelor's degrees from La Verne College during the school's 85th commencement.

Baum, son of Peter and Patricia Baum, received his degree in English. During his time at La Verne, he had excelled in journalism, winning several department awards and serving as cartoonist for the Campus Times newspaper.

A graduate of Claremont High School, Baum served as captain for both the track and cross country teams during his senior year.

Miss Fisher traveled over 6,000 miles to participate in La Verne's graduation exercises. She is stationed at the U.S. Naval Communications Station in Nea Makri, Greece, and received her degree through one of La Verne's unique residence centers. The college has six such centers located on military bases throughout the world to enable armed services personnel to work towards degrees.

A combined math/physics major, she holds the rank of ETN 2 (electronics technician). She will be promoted to ETN 1 on June 16. The honors graduate is also a candidate for the U.S. Navy "Sailor of the Year" award. She now holds the title of "Shore Sailor of the Year" for the NavTelCom Command and will enter competition with 26 other persons for the more encompassing title. Should she win this award, Miss Fisher will have the option of working with the Navy's Chief Naval Officer and traveling with him for a year.

"I decided to take classes from La Verne's residence center because they offered the classes right on base," says Miss Fisher. "One of my physics professors set up an independent study class for me based on my own interest and eventually he set up a degree program for me."

Miss Fisher has been in the Navy since 1971 and plans to re-enlist for another four years this summer. "It's something I'd always planned to do," she said. "My father was in the Air Force and my mother was in the Army. I was brought up on the premise that if you're going to live in a free country you're going to have to defend it. I didn't know which branch of the service I'd enter, but I always knew I would enlist."

New club formed

A new Area C-1 club has been formed, called the Foothill Toastmasters Club. At present its bi-monthly meetings are being held at Sir George's, 2072 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, at noon the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Foothill Toastmasters Club became a charter member May 14. Among officials present for installations was Walt Hamilton, Founders District governor.

Officers installed are Richard Housewright, president; Ralph Goodale, educational vice president; Jim Deskin, administrative vice president; Alan Schwartz, secretary; Arnold Gonzales, treasurer, and Glenn Gorzeman, sergeant-at-arms.

Montclair city council

Tentative OK given $6.1 million budget

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Montclair City Council has given tentative approval to a 1977-78 program of service that totalled $6,126,009.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman reported in his budget summary that "although the proposed program of service continues to be adversely affected by inflation, no change is recommended in the city property tax rate of $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation."

This marks the fifth year the council has decided to hold the tax rate.

Wasserman said the primary source of revenue remains the sales tax because increases in this area are "more significant because of inflationary trends."

Approval finally came on an unanimous vote after all leafed through the 251-page preliminary budget.

Primary concerns voiced included city needs possibly outstripping city personnel; reliance upon federal revenue sharing funds in the general account of the city; and upcoming reassessment of local homes by the county assessor that could tax residents out.

Mayor Harold Hayes, commenting on the incorporation of $220,000 of revenue sharing dollars into the general city service account, raised questions about "getting into the habit, the addiction of using revenue sharing funds in the general budget . . . We don't want to become dependent on these funds in the general fund budget."

Wasserman said if the need arose, the staff could cut out the federal funds from general expenses, but it might mean reductions in the level of service. He said that previously revenue sharing had been used for capital improvements and equipment replacement, but these areas were more stabilized now and didn't need the federal dollars.

The discussion of the transition of three employes — two from the fire department and one custodian — from federal source jobs with the city to the general account brought out concerns about manpower problems, particularly in the police department.

Due to the increased activities in the apartment areas and new commercial shopping and residential development, the city is "at the must level on new hires," Wasserman said. "If not for CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) and Manpower programs, we would have been in much more trouble sooner on the employment picture."

The administrator also asked for the hiring of part-time receptionists for the Civic Center and police department and a full-time police officer to meet increased workloads and demands for service.

Councilman Tom McClure said, "Sometime in the near future whether anybody likes it or not we're going to have to hire more people. We don't want to overload, but we must think about new people someplace quickly down the line. Either that or you cutback the level of service. From our point of view, that will be a political nut to crack."

McClure suggested a manpower report from staff that examines "where we really are and shortages we're facing."

Hayes commented that staff and council should also evaluate housing needs, particularly in density.

"Do we want any more apartment complexes? Can we handle the level of service required? We have to think in terms of our planning a way to project and eliminate these problems," Hayes said.

He also voiced concern about the upcoming assessment of Montclair homes and the fear that taxes on the basis of those reassessments may push people out of the community who can't afford substantial increases.

The budget breakdown is $4,701,215 for general funds and $1,424,794 in special funds. The overall increase of the total budget is 7.8 per cent over this year's budget.

The council will meet again June 14 to hear requests from community organizations for city contributions. Final approval of the budget is set for June 30.

Walnut slopes

By DAVID READER
PB Correspondent

Reassessments for some homeowners in Walnut for slope and landscape maintenance during the 1977-78 fiscal year were approved by the City Council Wednesday evening.

The assessments were levied on homeowners in three housing developments between La Puente Road and Valley Boulevard. The fee increases, due to higher water costs, are slightly more than for the previous fiscal year and determined on the basis of lot size.

Several homeowners hit by the reassessments complained the current maintenance work being done was not up to standard and the weeding, watering, and pest and gopher control of the slope areas below their homes was inadequate.

Perry Beck, head of the city's maintenance section, said he believed Leo Barrios Inc., the contractor hired to maintain the slopes, had done a sufficient job.

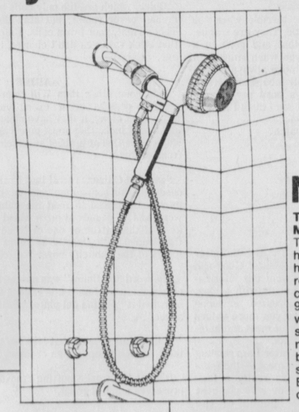

Beck said he meets often with Barrios to discuss work being done on the slope areas, and that Barrios has been cooperative and eager to resolve problem concerning the landscape maintenance.

City Manager Vern Lawson said that the city has tried to be responsive to citizen complaints and to take action on such items as criticism of landscape maintenance of the slope areas.

In a related matter, the council approved an interim agreement with Barrios Inc. for the landscape maintenance of three newly developed tracts at the developer's expense. At the expiration of the agreement and the end of fiscal year 1977-78, the city will then implement its own maintenance district plan.

The council held a preliminary hearing for citizens to give suggestions on how $40,000 in federal revenue sharing funds may be spent by Walnut.

Boy takes honors in spelling bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Paola, an eighth grader from Glenshaw, Pa., misspelled three words but then won the 50th National Spelling Bee by corrrectly spelling "cambist," a word he had never heard before.

"I feel great," said John, who placed 22nd in last year's national finals. "I was scared, mostly today, when I started to miss. The last word, I figured out what it was because I had never heard it before."

With the field of 94 reduced to two finalists, John emerged the winner by correctly spelling "sesquipedalian" after runnerup Joan O'Leary misspelled it. He then followed with cambist, a word dealing with tables of exchange.

Both John and Joan spelled 19 words in the two days of competition. The day began with 26 survivors from the first seven rounds, but 11 dropped out in round eight, 6 more in round nine and 5 in round 10.

Roxanne Taylor of Forest Hills, N.Y., misspelled mecometer as machometer in the 11th round, finishing in fourth place. Joseph Fumic of North Olmsted, Ohio, spelled triage as trieche in the 12th round to finish third.

Joan, an eighth grader in St. Joseph's school in Yonkers, N.Y., also misspelled only three words — the others being "futtock" and "yizkor" — but John won it by correctly spelling two words consecutively.

John wins $1,000, a color television set, and a trophy. His school, St. Bonaventure, will receive a plaque. Joan will receive a $500 check at today's awards banquet. Joseph Fumic wins $250 and Roxanne Taylor, $100.

Other winners of $100 prizes were Jill Pryor of New Cumberland, Pa., who placed fifth; Beverly Sanford of Lowell, N.C., sixth. Mike Williams of Melbourne, Fla., seventh; Sally Bennett, Verona, Wis., eighth; and Erin Page, Seattle, ninth.

John said he had been trying to get into the national finals for three years and that his experience paid off in the end.

He said his worst moment was when he misspelled "veery," which is the sound made by a bird or a thrush. Joan spelled the word correctly, but missed winning the competition right there by missing on "futtock," which is the curved timber on an old wooden ship.

John also missed futtock. The girl then was right on zoolatry, but missed yizkor, the Jewish service for commemorating the dead. John missed it too, then spelled udometer correctly.

The crucial word was "sesquipedalian", which means the use of long words. Joan missed it by spelling it "sesquipadalian." John spelled it correctly and followed with cambist.

Thursday's final rounds took less than one hour.

To win, John spelled 19 words: caterpillar, recoup, incendiary, gulosity, motley, caseous, ikebana, appaloosa, celsius, dactylology, biogenesis, machismo, marcasite. Then came the final sequence with Joan.

Sen. Baker criticizes overtures to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Thursday sharply criticized the Carter administration's moves toward normalization of relations with Cuba.

"I think this is the worst time in history to be cozying up to Cuba," Baker told a news conference.

The Tennessee Republican added he thought the administration's policy toward the Castro government "is misguided. I think it is destructive."

Baker said he believed that by their actions in Africa, the Cubans are "making us look foolish."

He also said that in their involvement in Africa, the Cubans "are surrogates of Russian foreign policy."

Baker's remarks about Cuba came when he was asked his opinion of the controversy generated by recent remarks by Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

"I think Andrew Young is doing pretty much what was planned for Andrew Young ... I think he's implementing President Carter's policy," Baker said.

Among the statements made by Young recently was the opinion that many people were overreacting to the presence of Cuban troops in Africa.

House Republican Leader John Rhodes participated with Baker in the news conference. Rhodes said that at a recent bipartisan meeting with President Carter to discuss foreign policy the President said that Young's work "forming a bridge to the underdeveloped countries would in 20 years be considered a very definite service to the country."

Asked if he thought Young should be fired, Rhodes said that as long as Young was carrying out the policies of the President, he saw no reason why he should be fired.

Gasoline supplies for summer high, but so are prices

NEW YORK (AP) — There's little chance of gasoline shortages this summer, industry observers say, but don't look for bargains at the pump.

As the peak summer driving season begins, gasoline inventories are at about their highest levels in recent years. But the observers say oil companies are storing the extra fuel rather than distributing it to wholesalers.

Even as inventories have been growing, the average retail price of gasoline has been increasing by about one penny per gallon per month since early spring. The price of gasoline usually rises in the spring and summer as driving increases.

According to Platt's Oilgram Price Service, which surveys national gasoline prices, the average retail price for regular gasoline, including taxes, was 61.9 cents in March, 62.6 cents in April, and 63.3 cents in May.

Dan Lundberg, the Los Angeles-based publisher of a gasoline industry newsletter and a recognized expert in the field, said Thursday that the higher inventories do not necessarily mean there are surpluses at retail levels.

And industry officials add that they expect the inventory to be reduced as the summer progresses.

"It's when there is a surplus that you see spot sales and price wars occurring, and we haven't seen any of that," Lundberg said.

According to the American Petroleum Institute — API — oil companies said gasoline inventories at the end of last week stood at 256.7 million barrels, about 17 per cent above the 219.1 million barrels reported a year ago. There are 42 gallons to a barrel.

Industry officials say the harsh winter — which caused widespread heating fuel shortages — is one of the major factors in the current large inventory of gasoline.

Can be under goal set for jobless rate, says adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration may be able to reduce unemployment below the 6.75 per cent goal it has set for itself, the President's top economic adviser said Thursday.

"Given the improvement in unemployment to date, we may do somewhat better, although that cannot yet be a firm prediction," Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

For the most part, Schultze said performance of the economy so far in 1977 should make possible the achievement of Carter's economic goals for the year.

Schultze said the economy should grow at about the same 6.4 per cent rate in the second quarter of the year as it did in the first quarter.

"The second half of 1977 will not show the same rate of gain as the first half, but it will be strong enough to make the full year a very good one for the economy," he said in his prepared testimony.

He said economic growth for the year should meet Carter's target of 5.75-6.00 per cent although growth in the second half of the year may be between 5.00 and 5.50 per cent.

Schultze also said the nation's inflation rate should decline later this year to the 6 per cent range that the administration believes is the underlying rate in the economy.

However, he acknowledged that if inflation does remain stuck above 10 per cent for much longer, "the recovery itself could be put in jeopardy."

But he maintained that the big boost in prices in the first four months of the year largely resulted from higher food and fuel costs. He said wage gains have remained about the same as last year and have shown no signs of accelerating.

"Looked at from these perspectives, it is apparent that the underlying rate of inflation has not changed materially in 1977; it still hovers around 6 per cent," he said.

He expressed some disappointment in this week's Commerce Department projecting only moderate increases in investment activity by businessmen, but indicated the report could be misleading.

He said other economic statistics, especially a pickup of business orders and contracts, indicate that investment may be stronger than the Commerce Department report showed.

"Further upward revisions in reported expenditure plans, while by no means certain, are a very real possibility," he said.

Cities saving cash by picking up trash

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

Some cities are beginning to find that their own workers can collect garbage cheaper and more efficiently than private refuse companies.

Pittsburgh and Richmond, Va. are saving hundreds of thousands of dollars a year by doing away with private contract garbage service and letting city employes do the job.

Minneapolis and Oklahoma City have divided their cities into sectors, some serviced by private refuse firms and the rest by city sanitationmen. The results so far have been greater productivity from both public and private workers competing against each other, and lower costs to taxpayers.

For years the conventional wisdom has been that garbage collection chores could be handled by private companies at savings to a city.

But in Minneapolis, 50,000 homes are served by city garbage workers and 73,000 by private contractors paid by the city. Clayton Sorenson, Director of Public Works, says that after five years, city costs have dropped steadily while the amount of refuse collected has tripled.

"When we began the arrangement, the private contract haulers were doing the job cheaper than our city workers. But we laid out route assignments for the city workers and told them they could go home anytime they were finished, even if it was less than an eight-hour day.

"Productivity increased," Sorenson says. "We disposed of the stereotype that public workers aren't human beings, that they can't be efficient."

The competitive atmosphere between public and private workers in Minneapolis has worked so well that a year ago city employes were found to be doing their job slightly cheaper than private contractors.

As a result, the private firms lowered their rates to keep up with the cost-efficiency of the city garbage collectors.

It is this kind of side-by-side competition that some feel is the ideal arrangement.

"It's exactly what we're hoping for," says Pat Lay, director of Public Service in Oklahoma City, which implemented a similar mix of public and private garbage pickup on May 2.

The various ways that cities can best dispose of trash were discussed in a study published last winter by Prof. E. S. Savas of Columbia University.

Savas says the most efficient way to handle garbage in larger cities is to divide it into districts of roughly 50,000 persons. The city should then contract out some of them to private firms. The city's own workers pick up the rest. If handled properly, the resulting competition can do wonders — keeping private service costs low, while increasing public worker productivity.

In Pittsburgh, the North Side district with about 80,000 persons was being served by Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., the nation's largest private refuse collector.

Frank Williams, director of Pittsburgh's Department of Environmental Services, said that by 1975, "we costed out the whole thing and we figured the city could take the North Side over at a savings of $200,000."

There is no clear-cut trend favoring either private or municipal collection. But Savas's study finds that increasingly cities are willing to change, and the changes have been about equally divided between those that switch to private pickup and municipal pickup.

Currently an average of one city out of 80 makes a switch one way or another each year, Savas said in a recent interview.

Working women

According to the Office of the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, only 1.4 per cent of all working women earn over $10,000 a year, but 13 per cent of the male work force earns over that figure.

His study of 2,060 U.S. cities found that among cities with populations of 250,000 to 750,000, 73 per cent use municipal garbage pickup for part or all of the city, and the proportion decreases rapidly to 23 per cent for cities with populations of 2,500 to 10,000.

The study, which didn't include cities with populations over 750,000, also found nearly three-quarters of Southern cities favoring municipal collection, but only about 19 per cent of Northeastern cities using public garbage workers.

Most of the nation's largest cities use municipal garbagemen, usually because of long-standing and hard-to-change arrangements with unions. San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Boston and Indianapolis are the largest cities that use private contractors for part or all of their garbage collection.

Savas's study, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, found that among 315 cities, the mean annual cost per household for garbage pickup done by city employes is $32.08, compared with $27.82 for private hauling. On the other hand, municipal collection tended to provide more service than contract firms, such as more frequent garbage collection and more backyard service.

ROLLING STONE

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

STEVE MILLER BAND: "Book of Dreams" (Capitol SO-11630).

Right now, Miller is making the best, most exciting Top 40 rock & roll of anyone. "Jet Airliner," his current hit, has the great guitar riff that was missing from the last Stones album, which is typical; Miller is no original, but his synthesis of available elements has the kind of sheer joy that's almost extinct in rock & roll right now. "Book of Dreams" lacks some of the musical depth of last year's "Fly Like An Eagle," and Miller's lyrics will never win prizes, but apart from that it's as fine an LP as I've heard all year.

BOB MARLEY & THE WAILERS: "Exodus" (Island ILPS-9498).

Bob Marley has more charisma than any other black performer in many years and on stage he seems ready to make the kind of cross-racial breakthrough no one has done since Jimi Hendrix and Sly Stone. Unfortunately, "Exodus" won't help that cause — it's almost stodgy, without a single song to break the plodding pace. The Wailers play beautifully and the I Threes sing well, but Marley, both as guitarist and singer, seems distracted, as though the assassins who almost got him last winter in Jamaica might burst through the door at any moment. This might give the record dimension, and tension, but without a direct look at the theme it merely makes Marley seem defenseless — as if his political enemies had won an artistic victory.

* * *

ERIC ANDERSEN: "The Best Songs" (Arista AL 4128).

Anderson was the Original New Dylan, 1965 vintage — and here he has re-made several of the songs which earned him that accolade (or market designation, if you will). Unfortunately, even the best of them ("Violets of Dawn," "Hey Babe Have You Been Cheatin'," "Thirsty Boots") have to make up in excited singing what their imagery lacks in majesty. And Andersen's vocals are so dolorous today that the youthful energy of the songs is sapped. It's enough to make one wonder whether this album was his idea.

* * *

THE HOLLIES: "Clarke, Hicks, Sylvester, Calvert, Elliott" (Epic PE 34714).

A collection by this ageless English harmony quintet, assembled from several European albums not released in the U.S. plus one track by a newly hot writer which came out a couple years ago (Bruce Springsteen's "Sandy"). The hard-rocking "48 Hour Parole" and the powerful ballads like "Write On," even the often pleasant harmonies and jazzy rhythms almost make up for the unremitting, dumb inappropriateness of their butchery of Springsteen's song.

* * *

HEART: "Little Queen" (Portrait JR 34799).

The success of Heart's first album, "Dreamboat Annie," was based on an eccentric combination of elements: vocalist Ann Wilson's rock singing, hard-rock riffs coupled with folk rhythms, and excellent singing. With thinner material, and perhaps less inspired performances now that the group is at the top, the sound has become something more of a formula — although a couple of tracks are quite affecting.

Playwright keeps his eye on script

SIMON SAYS

Playwright Neil Simon watches a scene from his latest movie, "The Cheap Detective," now filming in Hollywood. Simon studies the rehearsals and frequently changes the script.

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The assistant director was getting angry. He prowled the sound stage issuing his ultimatum: One word, even a whisper, and the offender would be tossed off the set of "The Cheap Detective."

A stage hand stood with a potato chip in his hand. Only after Peter Falk, starring as private eye Lou Peckinpah, had finished the scene did he pop it into his mouth and crunch.

Director Robert Moore ran Falk, Marsha Mason, Abe Vigoda and Vic Tayback through the scene again and again. It was hard to remain quiet. The dialogue was so real, yet so incongruous, it was difficult to suppress a laugh, even hearing it the tenth time.

Writer Neil Simon stood nearby, watching and listening intently. Unlike most writers, Simon was on the set every day, all day.

"Why not?" he asked later. "I don't understand why every writer doesn't. I just rewrote a couple of lines in the scene. If you change just one word for the better it's worth the whole day.

"I do it on all my plays, all my movies. What if I didn't hang around and the picture suffered? Bob and I have worked together before and I trust him, but I've done several pictures where the director and I did not have the same attitude, and if you don't have the same attitude and intent it changes the play. My comedy is based on attitude."

Simon is the most successful comedy writer ever, with such hits as "The Odd Couple," "The Sunshine Boys," "Prisoner of Second Avenue," "Barefoot in the Park," and "Murder by Death."

"The Cheap Detective" is Simon's loving sendup of the hardboiled private eye. He's seen "The Maltese Falcon" 35 times, and in the cadence of Falk's speech is a reminder of Humphrey Bogart.

Simon said it includes characters and bits of scenes from "The Maltese Falcon," "The Big Sleep," "Farewell, My Lovely," "To Have and Have Not," "Chinatown," a non-Bogart film, and even "Casablanca." — "plus elements of my own."

He said, "The angle, the hook I needed to get into writing it was to make him a private detective with six love affairs at the same time. It was the comic element I needed.

"Most private eye films were on the edge of parody, and when they were badly done they came close to being humorous. I was attracted to it. The private eye is exotic. He works alone. He has the seedy office.

"I make it as real as possible, but curve it enough to point out the humor. My theory is that if you took the comedy out of my plays it would still play as drama. They have a dramatic spine.

"It's reality comedy. Otherwise, you're only as funny as your last joke. I want people to follow a story and be surprised by the humor."

Asked about his succeess, he replied, "I think the law of averages is on my side. I set out a long time ago to write a play every year. And I've done it. Sixteen plays in 16 years and 11 movies."

Nearly half a million tiny colored lights are used in Disneyland's new Main Street Electrical Parade headed by the towering Blue Fairy. The pageant will be staged June 18-Sept. 10.

PBS still believes kids count

NEW YORK (AP) — Alone, the Public Broadcasting Service is proving once again its belief that kids count.

In unveiling its fall list of children's programming here today, PBS continues its enlightened — but sadly, not so revolutionary — view of children as people.

It recognizes that they are thirsty for knowledge, that they have feelings and that they are greedy for television shows that elevate as well as entertain.

The three shows that won Emmys this year, in each category in which PBS was nominated, will be returning.

One of them, "Electric Company," seen by an estimated six million youngsters in the United States and by others in 22 foreign countries, begins repeats of the last two seasons. It was cited as outstanding informational children's series.

"Sesame Street," which won the instructional series award, adds a pre-science curriculum and seeks expanded cultural diversity by basing some shows in Hawaii. Introduced this year, simple health practices rise to the fore in 1977-78.

Winner of the children's entertainment Emmy, "Zoom" will feature films about children in Australia, England and Japan and add special segments on handicapped children.

Indeed, the handicapped get special treatment on a spectrum of the PBS fall schedule. An hour-long documentary, "Including Me," tells the story of six handicapped children who learn to learn with the encouragement of understanding parents and imaginative teachers.

Also, handicapped children are made to feel at home on "Sesame Street," where they are a normal part of the environment.

The CB Bonanza'

Texans dig facts

By INK DIPPER

It was only a matter of time before the great world of statistics grabbed us CBers and began the arduous chore of determining whether we had mostly blue eyes and silver tongues.

It's happened.

Two Texans named Nadine Wells and Joe Pinner invested their own money and time to put together a 108-page book called "The CB Bonanza." And it is really loaded with statistics. According to their research, 40 per cent of all CBers are located in only six states: Texas, Illinois, Missouri, Florida, California and Iowa. And 13.4 per cent of these are in Texas. The distribution of most CB units in use, they say, is in only 16 states where three-quarters of all CBers live.

In addition to the six aforementioned, the other 10 states are Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Indiana, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Kansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, and Oklahoma. The other 25 per cent are in the other 44 states.

If you are like me, you're scratching your head and saying why so big a load in some states and so few in others. Nadine and Joe don't give any answers to this question.

They come up with some other facts that are intriguing, too. For instance, they say that 96 per cent of all CBers are men, and their ages are between 25 and 45 years. Nearly 90 per cent are married, and 31 per cent have teen-age children. More than half, 52 per cent, reside in towns of 100,000 or less population. The salary range of 46 per cent is between $10,000 and $20,000 annually. Of their respondents 65.6 per cent purchased their CB units for personal use. However, 27.8 per cent use their unit for both personal and business purposes.

I don't know where the book is available, but, obviously, "The CB Bonanza!" is the accumulation of a tremendous amount of research. It is well worth searching out and perusing.

By the way, look for the higher-priced CB units to be the big thing later this year. All the manufacturers are chugging out the bells and whistles in the 40-channel rigs they'll be marketing this fall. This is a customized line that includes memory readout (borrowed from the calculator industry), keyboard technology, pushbutton channel selection, digital display of frequency and digital timekeeping.

Hy-Gain has several models in the $250 class ready now. Sony and Matsushita (Panasonic) also are heading for the high end of the CB price structure. The Panasonic label, for instance will introduce a combination in-dash car radio, eight track tape player, and a CB transceiver at about $350.

Sony plans three models. The highest priced will include an under-dash single side-band unit with 40 channels. All three will be high performance.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

This is Award Recognition Week at Griswold's Indian Hill, recently recognized by the Restaurant Writers Association with a "Best in Category" award. The Claremont restaurant is inviting all friends of Griswold's to enjoy a festive gourmet dinner commemorating this distinguished achievement this weekend.

The menu: Chicken Crepe Bombay, Shrimp Salad Pacifica, Roast New York Strip, Flaming Cherries Jubilee, a glass of wine, and coffee.

Versatile entertainer Brad Mercer will debut as headliner of the Brad Mercer Show next Monday night in the Loading Dock Lounge of Claremont's Beef 'n' Barrel restaurant.

His show ranges from serious ballads to novelty songs, comedy and impressions. In addition to exceptional singing ability, Brad is an outstanding musician, playing five or more different musical instruments during his performance.

An accomplished songwriter, he recently recorded an album in Nashville, and has a single release, "Don Rickles for President," to his credit.

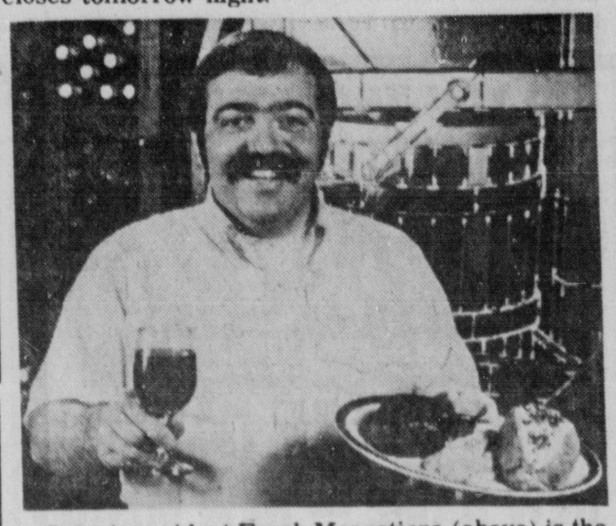

He'll perform Monday through Saturday at the 'Barrel. The current show group there "Cartune," closes tomorrow night.

Chaffey sets spring concert

The choral music department of Chaffey College will present its annual spring concert in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. June 19. Admission is free.

Directing the concert Choir and the Concert Ensemble Singers is Joyce Shannon, whose groups are widely known throughout the community. The Concert Choir was heard most recently in a performance of Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" with the West End Symphony Orchestra. In the past few weeks, the Concert Ensemble Singers have appeared in concert at churches in Upland and Claremont and at the Renaissance Faire in Agoura, and have entertained the West End Opera Guild and the Ontario Rotary Club.

The program will be highlighted by a performance of Handel's "Utrecht Jubilate," accompanied by a community orchestra assembled by Bernard Millstein, and directed by Mrs. Shannon. The "Jubilate," a setting of Psalm 100 in seven brief movements, was composed on royal commission by Handel in 1713 to celebrate the Peace of Utrecht. One of the composer's first choral works in English, it displays the brilliance, elegance and splendor of the many ceremonial pieces which were to come from his pen during his long residence in England. Sunday's performance is a first in the West End.

Soloists in the "Jubilate" are contraltos Carole Nash of Ontario and Randi Smith of Chino. Miss Nash recently presented a solo recital of art songs at Chaffey College. Miss Smith has toured Europe and the Orient as a member of the famous Musical Americans. Large field races Seattle Slew

NEW YORK (AP) — Someone at the draw for post positions for the 109th running of the Belmont Stakes wondered why Johnny Campo had bothered to enter two horses against unbeaten Seattle Slew.

But Campo was not in attendance, so Mickey Taylor, whose wife Karen is listed as Slew's owner, stepped in. "It's like Campo says, 'I know there's one horse I can't beat, but I can beat the rest.'"

A field of 10 3-year-olds was entered on Thursday for Saturday's third jewel of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown. If Seattle Slew can overcome that large field, he not only will be the first undefeated Triple Crown winner, he also will have overcome a larger field than any of his nine predecessors.

But Taylor does not believe the large field indicates there still are those who question the colt's ability. "They want to put up the money," he said "and it makes no difference to us how many enter. Iron Constitution, Run Dusty Run, Sanhedrin, they deserve to be in it. The rest have high hopes."

The Campo entry of Max Gluck's Make Amends and Hey Hey J.P., owned by Campo and his wife, likely will not make it to post (at about 2:38 p.m. PDT) intact, however. Campo is expected to scratch Hey Hey J.P. and run him in the Keystone Handicap on the same day as the Belmont, leaving nine in the field.

Regardless, Taylor is not worried about Seattle Slew's competition. "I don't worry about the other horses. I never have. Slew can gallop faster than most horses can run," he said. "And this is our playground this time. We're the home team."

Seattle Slew, the winner of his first eight starts—four of them in New York—including the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, under jockey Jean Cruguet, drew the No. 6 post position for the 1½-mile Belmont, which will be worth $183,800 if all 10 go. The winner would earn $110,280.

In order of post position, the Belmont entries were Golden Chance Farm's Run Dusty Run, Sandy Hawley; Harry T. Mangurian Jr.'s Iron Constitution, Angel Cordero Jr.; Hey Hey J.P., no boy; Make Amends, Ron Turcotte; La Luna Stable's Sir Sir, Gustavo Avila; Seattle Slew; Elaine Brodsky's Leading Scorer, no boy; Darby Dan Farm's Sanhedrin, Jorge Velasquez; John L. Greer's Mr. Red Wing, Jacinto Vasquez, and Meadow Stable's Spirit Level, Tony Graell. All will carry 126 pounds.

"I think it's a compliment," Karen Taylor said of the large field. "Everybody wants to beat Seattle Slew."

As slim as the chances might be, the colts given the best chance of upsetting the dark bay Slew were the ones Taylor mentioned.

Iron Constitution, trained by Thomas Root Jr., did not enter the Kentucky Derby but ran second under Velasquez in the Preakness after beating Cormorant by a nose in the Withers the week before. When Velasquez took the mount on Sanhedrin, Cordero took the ride on Iron Constitution, winner of three stakes this year.

Sanhedrin, trained by Lou Rondinello, has not won this year but has finished in the money in five of his seven starts.

"Sanhedrin is a come-from-behind horse," said Rondinello. "The only thing I haven't taught him yet is how to win."

Run Dusty Run, trained by Smiley Adams, has won eight of 16 career starts and $375,111. He has won more money than any colt in the field except Seattle Slew, whose career earnings are $608,640. Darrell McHargue had been Run Dusty Run's jockey until he was fired after the Preakness, in which he was criticized by Adams. Run Dusty Run was third in the Preakness after finishing second in the Derby.

The entry of Spirit Level marks the return to Triple Crown racing by Meadow Stable and Mrs. Leonard Ringquist, the former Penny Tweedy, who owned the 1973 Triple Crown winner, Secretariat.

On the day the entries were made for the Belmont Stakes, Mrs. Ringquist had occasion to reflect on the great Secretariat's victory here four years ago and on her 1977 chances.

"To win is always wonderful," said Mrs. Ringquist. "But when people expect you to win, and there's a lot of pressure to win, in a sense you don't enjoy it as much as when it sneaks up on you."

Vallone didn't expect draft call

Jim Vallone has to be one of the happiest of the 1977 crop of baseball draftees.

Vallone and La Verne College teammate Doug Thomson were both drafted by the Angels. The only other Leo selected was third baseman Steve Polan by Baltimore.

Both Thomson and Polan had been drafted before and expected to be drafted again. Vallone had never been drafted and it didn't bother him that he wasn't taken until the 24th round.

"I didn't think I'd be drafted at all," he exclaimed. "I wanted to play so bad, I'd play for nothing . . . just for the love of the game."

Jim had voiced the same thought, along with a determination to pitch in the major leagues, before La Verne left to compete in the NAIA World Series.

But slim Jim won't have to play for nothing although he won't be making much money. He signed his contract Thursday morning and will report to Idaho Falls, Idaho (Pioneer League) June 19. League play begins June 25.

Just before the Leopards left for the NAIA World Series, Vallone became engaged to marry his highschool (Glendora) sweetheart, Virgina Brown. They'll be married next February.

The Angel scout who signed Jim, Larry Himes, will be his manager at Idaho Falls. The Halos plan to use him strictly as a relief pitcher.

So things are working out for Vallone and it couldn't happen to a nicer fellow.

Hines, Leos scatter

La Verne Coach Ben Hines left Monday for Baltimore and then will go on to Bluefield, W. Va. where he will manage again for the Orioles in the Appalachian League.

The rest of the team has scattered. Hines has those who will be returning next year set for summer baseball.

Two time All-American catcher Tim Burzette will play summer ball in Fairbanks, Alaska. Bob Waldusky, who led the Leos in home runs (17) will be in Dodge City, Kansas as will Montclair's Brent Jetton (8-0).

Pat Proulx (.347) of Montclair will play at Hutchinson, Kansas as will centerfielder Billy Hughes and incoming JC transfer Mike Shipley.

Infielder Bruce Hines will spend the summer at Clarinda, Iowa as will catcher Marty Davis and outfielder Jim Wilfong.

Also heading for Dodge City are pitchers Paul McGuire (10-1) and Steve Goggans (4-2).

Thomson was supposed to play in Boulder, Colorado. Joe Bruno, from Chaffey JC, is pencilled in at Rapid City, S.D. Hank Ritchey, from Citrus JC, will be heading for Ft. Hayes, Kansas and Tim Behler, from Mesa JC (Arizona), will be in Beatrice, Nebraska.

HERE 'N THERE — Most excited of the draftees was Pomona's Joe Madrigal. The Ganesha High, Post 30 player could hardly contain himself when the Progress Bulletin call informed him he had been taken by Oakland.

Madrigal 'wowed'

"Oh wow," he exclaimed. "Oakland! Oh that's unreal. Man that really makes the adrenalin pump." We hope Joe was able to get some sleep after the call.

It is moments like those that make working the sports desk pure pleasure.

USC's Rob Hertel wasn't taken until the 28th round. Word must have gotten around that Hertel was leaning heavily toward playing his final season of football at Troy. As a reserve last year, Hertel completed 30 of 46 passes including a school record-tying four touchdown passes in one game (Iowa).

When the National Football League meets in New York June 14, both Pasadena and Los Angeles will be bidding for the 1979 Super Bowl. Five other cities also want it. They are Dallas, Houston, Miami, New Orleans and Seattle.

The Chicago Bears think so much of USC's Vince Evans as a quarterback, they have assured Evans in writing that his position is quarterback and he will not be expected to perform any other duties than those performed by NFL quarterbacks. Evans signed a three-year contract with the Bears.

The news that UCLA coach Gene Bartow is job hunting doesn't suprise this writer. This column predicted last winter that Bartow would quit and take his complaints and tears elsewhere.

Only last week Columnist Steve Bisheff of the San Diego Tribune itemed, "The rumor keeps getting warmer and warmer. Dean Smith of North Carolina is the likely successor to Gene Bartow."

Word was out nationally a month ago that Bartow had let it be known that he would like to make a move.

BIG LEAP

USC's Larry Doubley leaps to 25-11½ to qualify for today's long jump finals in the National AAU Track and Field Meet being held this weekend at UCLA.

Davila takes big step

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Alberto Davila has apparently found the right "combination".

The Pomona bantamweight took a giant step towards a world title match Thursday with a most impressive five-round demolition job of Frankie Duarte at the Olympic Auditorium.

Davila, now 23-4 in his pro career, is currently the number-five ranked 118-pounder in the world by the World Boxing Association, and will probably advance a couple notches in those ratings with his showing Thursday.

Using some brilliant combinations and all-around ringsmanship, Davila totally outclassed Duarte, who entered the bout with a 28-2 record and 22 knockouts.

"No doubt about it, this was the best I've ever fought," said a jubilant Davila after the triumph. "I put everything together perfectly tonight.

"I was really ready for him," Davila explained. "I woke up this morning wanting to fight him right then, that's how ready I was for this fight."

Indeed, Davila looked sharp from the opening bell.

The Pomona pugilist, to the surprise of many, was the man throwing all the heavy leather. Duarte entered the bout with the reputation of a KO artist, but never had a chance to land his big bombs vs. the polished Davila.

Davila, who won the first round on most ringside observer's cards, gave Duarte a taste of things to come early in the second round.

Davila decked the Venice boxer early in that stanza with a wicked left hook to the head. Duarte, more stunned than hurt, bounced to his feet and took a standing eight count.

However, he was never again quite the same, as Davila began to repeatedly beat him to the punch with crisp blows to the body and head.

Alberto won the third round impressively, and really began to open up in the fourth, landing almost at will.

Duarte's face was puffy when he came out for round five, and he ran into more punishment at the fists of Davila.

With the Olympic crowd of 5,905 screaming in anticipation of a knockout, Davila obliged. A solid right hand sent Duarte to the canvas late in the round, and obviously hurt the Venice scrapper.

He struggled to his feet and took another eight count, but Davila rushed in and smashed him to the canvas once again, this time with another left hook. Referee Rudy Jordan stopped the fight at that point, with seven seconds left in the round, and awarded Davila the knockout victory.

"I've wanted this fight for four years, and that guy (Duarte) kept ducking me," a delighted Davila said. "I was ready for him when I got the chance.

"I really want a title match now, but I will fight anybody. If I can put punches together and take advantage of my openings like I did tonight, I'm sure I can beat any bantamweight in the world."

Thursday's win for Davila puts him in line for a possible WBA title match with Carlos Zarate. Zarate, from Mexico City, is 47-0 with 46 knockouts, but if Davila can box him like he did Duarte Thursday night, a bantamweight title could well be waiting for the Garey High grad.

In a companion main event Thursday, former world featherweight champ Bobby Chacon of Sylmar continued his comeback in impressive fashion with a second round knockout of Miguel Estrada of El Paso, Texas. Chacon, 133½, had Estrada on the deck four times before referee Marty Denkin stopped the bout.

Chacon is now 35-3 with 32 knockouts. Estrada dropped to 40-6-1 with 26 knockouts.

RINGSIDE NOTES — Pomona's other bantamweight sensation, Alberto "Superfly" Sandoval, was introduced prior to the Davila-Duarte scrap and drew a big hand from the Olympic crowd.

Sandoval will be back in action at the Olympic on June 30 vs. a still to be named opponent, according to matchmaker Don Chargin. "Superfly" is 19-0 as a pro with 13 knockouts.

Thursday's crowd and gate ($45,835) were the largest of the year at the L.A. boxing arena.

Next week's main event at the Olympic pits junior welterweights Monroe Brooks (31-3) vs. Randy Shields (31-2), both ranked in the top ten in the world.

Winkles takes over at Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — Bobby Winkles will take over today as manager of the Oakland A'S, replacing Jack McKeon, an A's spokesman announced.

Winkles is currently third base coach for the San Francisco Giants. McKeon, who took over Charles O. Finley's A's at the beginning of this season, has been offered a job as Finley's administrative assistant, the spokesman said.

No reason for the mid-season switch was announced.

Bartow talks to Alabama

NEW YORK (AP) — At present, Gene Bartow says it is nothing but talk—but he is not saying just how serious it is.

The UCLA basketball coach, successor to John Wooden and not nearly as successful as his predecessor, admitted Thursday he had talked to officials at the University of Alabama-Birmingham about becoming their coach and athletic director—but denied reports he was southbound.

"It is just a rumor," he told The Associated Press. "I've talked with those poeple, I know they are interested in setting up a basketball program, but that is all I know. I understand they are talking to several people. It is just in the talking stage. I was amazed when I got here and found out that it had been published that I had made a decison because I haven't made any decisions yet."

In Los Angeles, UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan said Bartow told him that "people from Birmingham had contacted him and wanted him to come by and discuss the job of athletic director and basketball coach. At the present time, Birmingham has only a club and intramural program and they want to start an intercollegiate program.

"Gene asked permission to go by and talk with them," Morgan recalled, "and I said okay."

Bartow coached at Memphis State and Illinois before taking over at UCLA. In his two seasons there, the Bruins have won two straight Pacific-8 Conference championships—but they have no't won a national championship, something Wooden's teams did 10 times in 12 years.

Davenport makes AAU finals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An old veteran, hurdler Willie Davenport, and a relatively unknown sprinter, Derald Harris, went into the finals of their events today with added confidence after good qualifying performances in the National AAU Track and Field Championships at UCLA.

Davenport, the 33-year-old former Olympic star, won his heat Thursday in qualifying for the 110-meter high hurdles and his clocking of 13.74 seconds equalled the best mark of the day in the event. Charles Foster won his heat with an identical time.

Harris, from Los Medanos College in Pittsburg, Calif., was the fastest of a good 200-meter field with a time of 20.78. James Gilkes won the other qualifying heat in 20.85.

Two of those considered top contenders in the 200, however, did not make it to the final. Steve Williams, rated among the favorites in both the 100 and 200, finished fifth in the heat won by Harris. Clancy Williams, also expected to do well in both sprints, pulled up lame with a sore thigh muscle in the same heat.

"I just didn't have it together for the 200," said a disappointed Williams. "My rhythm is off and I just didn't have the proper timing for the race. I'm going to be pretty confident in the 100, though."

There were only three finals, all women's, scheduled for the first day of the three-day meet, and Iowa State's Peg Neppel highlighted those with the world's best time in the seldom-run women's 10,000 meters.

Miss Neppel, a 23-year-old graduate student, took the lead early and lapped the field en route to her 33:15.09 clocking. That time bettered the world's best mark of 33:42.2 set by Denmark's Loa Olofsson last March. The women's 10,000 is not, however, an event recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Following her victory, Miss Neppel said she had injured her foot slightly earlier in the week and had not run since Tuesday.

"It was bothering me late in the race," she said. "But when you have a race like that going, you don't throw it out the window."

In another final, Sue Broddock bettered her American record with a time of 24:10.1 in the women's 5,000-meter walk. She had set the national standard of 25:28.8 in this meet last year.

Winners of events in the AAU Nationals become eligible to represent the United States in the inaugural World Cup meet next September in Dusseldorf, West Germany. The World Cup is seen as an international championship meet to be held annually except in Olympic years.

A's draft Madrigal

Ganesha High's Joe Madrigal was the only local player selected as baseball wound up its annual summer free agent draft Thursday.

Madrigal, a pitcher-shortstop for the Giants and a pitcher-outfielder for the Post 30 American Legion team, was taken by the Oakland Athletics on the 37th round.

Injuries prevented Madrigal from playing much for Ganesha. Only one other high school player from the local area was selected in the three days of drafting. Montclair's Rick Adams was picked the first day.

Cardinals rip Rhoden

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Manager Vern Rapp says he's satisfied with his team's offense and Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda has no trouble seeing why.

"He scouted them and said they were a real good hitting team and they showed it tonight," said Lasorda after the Cardinals shelled his Dodgers 6-3 Thursday night.

Lasorda's reference was to advance scout Jerry Stephenson, who sat nearby in the Los Angeles manager's clubhouse office while commiserating with Rick Rhoden, 8-3, the losing pitcher.

"I thought I was throwing the ball pretty good. They just got the hits," lamented Rhoden, the chief victim of a 13-hit St. Louis assault.

The 6-foot-3 Rhoden, while thwarted in his bid to become the National League's first nine-game winner, issued a walk that led to a Cards run in the second inning.

Then a double by winning pitcher Bob Forsch, 8-2, in tandem with Jerry Mumphrey's triple and Garry Templeton's sacrifice fly stretched the St. Louis lead to 3-0 in the third.

Rhoden escaped further damage in the fourth when Mike Tyson grounded into a double play following Keith Hernandez' one-out double and a single by Ken Reitz.

But in the fifth the Cards' advantage increased to 5-0 and signaled the Dodger right-hander's departure when Forsch singled, Templeton doubled and Tony Scott delivered a two-base hit to score both.

Los Angeles' attack, meanwhile, was dormant until Davey Lopes singled to start the sixth, stole his second base of the night and eventually scored on a Forsch wild pitch.

Reitz pounded his eighth homer, marking a personal one-season career high, for St. Louis in the bottom of the sixth and a two-run blast by Los Angeles' Dusty Baker proved too little an inning later.

While Rapp labeled the Cards' hitting "consistent to this point," a contrasting viewpoint was expounded in the clubhouse of the losing club following the Dodgers' eighth loss in 12 games.

"We're just somewhat lethargic right now. We're not playing the way we can," maintained Reggie Smith, an-ex Cardinal. "There's something wrong. You can point your finger at a couple of things — like a lacking of kidding and joking. I think the guys are being too serious."

St. Louis' barrage, fortified by four doubles and two triples in addition to Reitz' homer, provided more than enough support for Forsch, who left in the seventh and let Al Hrabosky finish.

Rapp, in further endorsing the effectiveness of his team's lusty hitting, said, "I think it was evident in tonight's ball game.

"Almost anybody that comes up is a threat," he said. "We've had good production up and down the line-up. We're getting a lot of RBI out of each position."

Garvey tops N.L. voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers first baseman Steve Garvey headed a group of seven All-Star veterans who led in voting today for the 1977 National League team.

The first weekly tabulations were announced by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuuhn.

The top vote-getters by position were Garvey and teammates Ron Cey, third base, and Reggie Smith, outfield; second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion and catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati; St. Louis' Lou Brock, outfield, and Pittsburgh outfielder Dave Parker.

Parker is the only one in the group who never has played in an All-Star game.

This year's game, matching the top players in the National and American leagues, will be played July 19 at Yankee Stadium, home of the New York Yankees.

Tanana goes for 10th win

ANAHEIM (AP) — Frank Tanana, trying to become the first 30-game inner in the major leagues in nearly a decade, will be on the mound for California tonight when the Angels open a three-game series against Cleveland.

Wayne Garland, who has been a disappointment for the Indians with a 2-5 record after signing a $2.3 million contract as a free agent, is scheduled to start for Cleveland.

If he becomes the majors' first 10-game winner tonight, Tanana will be three days ahead of Denny McLain's pace. The former Detroit right-hander was 31-6 in 1968.

Before McLain, the last 30-game winner was St. Louis' Dizzy Dean, who was 30-7 in 1934.

The Angels had the day off Thursday after a marathon 13-inning 2-1 victory over Toronto Wednesday night.

Nolan Ryan, who struck out 19 Blue Jays and retired the first 16 batters in succession, looked like a 40-game winner against Toronto.

Ryan was scheduled to pitch against the Indians' Dennis Eckersley in the home stand finale Sunday, but he may require an extra day of rest after throwing 171 pitches Wednesday night. He said he would probably be able to make a decision on that matter today.

It was the third time Ryan had struck out 19 and only the 10th time that many batters had been fanned by a pitcher in a game.

Insolo wins pole position

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The all-time stock car lap record fell officially Thursday at Riverside International Raceway as Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills, Calif., and Hershel McGriff of Bridal Veil, Ore. dueled in 1976 Camaros.

Both drivers, who are entered in the Black Gold 200 for NASCAR modified stock cars to be held Saturday as a preliminary to Sunday's NAPA Riverside 400, shattered Parnelli Jones' seven-year-old lap record of 113.310 miles per hour.

First McGriff was clocked at 115.256 m.p.h. around the 2.62mile course, some three m.p.h. faster than the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National divers had been able to do in an earlier practice session.

Then Insolo had an average speed of 115.721 m.p.h. to win the pole position for the 200-kilometer race.

By comparison, the fastest of the NAPA Riverside 400 practice laps had been turned by Darrel Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., in a 1976 Chevrolet at 112.193.

Other top speeds turned in by NAPA Riverside 400 drivers were 111.481 m.p.h. by Richard Petty in a 1974 Dodge; 111.260 m.p.h. by David Pearson in a 1976 Mercury; 110.336 m.p.h. by Cale Yarborough in a 1977 Chevrolet and 109.941 m.p.h. by Benny Parsons in a 1977 Chevrolet.

Pole qualifying for the $139,000 400-kilometer road race will be held Friday as will time trials for two preliminary events, the California 150 for NASCAR sportsman stock cars and the Black Gold 200.

Other leading qualifiers for the Black Gold 200 Thursday were Joe Ruttman of Upland, Calif., Ivan Baldwin of Modesto, Calif., Ed Ash of Azusa, Calif., Bill Osborne of Rialto, Calif., Jim Whitt of El Cajon, Calif., and Bill Foster of Newhall, Calif.

San Gabriel Saints will open on July 9

AZUSA — The San Gabriel Valley Saints of the newly formed California Football League are busy preparing for their league opener with the San Jose Tigers July 9.

The Saints practice three times a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at Azusa High. Their five-game home schedule will be played at Citrus College with games starting at 7:30 p.m.

The League consists of eight teams divided into two four-team divisions, North and South. Playoffs begin in October with the championship game, the "Mini Bowl" set in New Orleans a day before Super Bowl XII.

Surgery for Desjardins

BUFFALO (AP) — Goaltender Gerry Desjardins of the Buffalo Sabres says he will undergo surgery on his right eye June 23 in Buffalo General Hospital.

Desjardins' eye was injured when struck by a puck in a National Hockey League game against Boston in mid-February.

He said Tuesday that he was told by physicians at a Boston hospital, where he has been taking treatments, that he would need surgery.

NHL OKs Barons' sale

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League Board of Governors spent a lot of time talking this week at its annual meetings, but in essence, accomplished little in the way of big decisions.

The only major decision reached came on the final day of the meetings Thursday, when the board approved the sale of the Cleveland Barons to George Gund and Sanford Greenberg by Mel Swig.

But the governors did not elect a president officially at the meetings as expected. Although John Ziegler, a 43-year-old Detroit lawyer and present chairman of the NHL board, reportedly has the job, the final announcement will not be made until a special league meeting at Chicago June 22.

There was no final decision on an accommodation with the World Hockey Association, either, although the board was almost unanimous that the NHL's fact-finding committee on expansion should continue its work and report back to the governors in Chicago.

"More important decisions will be made during the Chicago meetings June 22," said outgoing President Clarence Campbell.

Post 330, Gems win Legion games

La Verne Post 330 and Pomona Post 30 chalked up victories Thursday night in American Legion baseball.

La Verne ran its record to 8-2 with a 2-1 win over Anaheim at La Verne College. Dave Drury (4-0) scattered four hits while striking out five and walking one.

The visitors scored their only run in the fifth inning on a double, infield out and sacrifice fly.

Post 330 scored once in the second when walks to Drury and Dave Loara and Bill Bumstead's hit loaded the bases. Bob Vidaure's squeeze bunt got Drury in.

Bumstead, Loara and Vidaure each got hits to load the bases in the fourth. Bumstead scored when Doug Paul walked.

Craig Handy had a no-hitter for five innings as Post 30 walloped Fullerton, 8-1 at Ralph Welch Park. Roger Saffer singled to break the string in the sixth.

Larry Reyes had three hits including a double and triple. Mike Keegan and Joe Chapa each had two hits. Hardy fanned six in five innings and Tim Lambert four in two innings.

Post 30 (8-7) travels to Edgewood High Saturday to play West Covina. Post 330 hosts Walnut Sunday at LVC at 7 p.m.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices showed no clear-cut trend during the morning session in slow trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

There was little in the way of background news to influence trading.

As the market opened, Citibank of New York, a trendsetter in adjusting the prime banking rate, announced that it was retaining the rate at its current level — 6¾ per cent. It was the second consecutive week that Citibank had passed up an option to change its rate.

In explanation of its decision, Citibank announced it had changed its base lending rate formula. Heretofore, the bank's formula reflected a spread of 1½ per cent above the threeweek average rate on 90-day commercial paper. From now on the formula will reflect a spread of 1¼ per cent.

Some analysts said Citibank's decision was welcome news to traders and investors, who have feared a tightening of interest rates. Whether the move would spur the market remained to be seen.

Traders also were keeping their eye on the oil pricing situation in view of reports Saudi Arabia was about to raise its price 5 per cent by the end of the month. Such a move would end the split-level pricing situation among the oil producing countries.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 3.14 points Thursday, was down 1.35 to 908.67 shortly before noon. Advances led declines, 596 to 436, among the 1,527 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to about 7,460,000 shares, compared with 8,030,000 shares traded during the morning Thursday.

Stocks of two movie companies, a group which was the star performer in Thursday's session, were actively traded.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., which reached its high for the year Thursday, eased ⅛ to 22½ while Columbia Pictures was unchanged at 14¼. Twentieth Century-Fox was third on the active list while Columbia was 13th.

Topping the active list was Pan American World Airways, up ⅜ to 5¼. A block of 100,000 shares of Pan Am was traded at 5. Second most active was Texaco, unchanged at 26⅝.

Avis Corp, the rental car firm, was delayed in opening. Directors of the company met in special session to decide on competing offers for 47 per cent of Avis shares held in trusteeship. The rival bids were made by Norton Simon and Fuqua Industries. Norton Simon slipped ⅛ while Fuqua was unchanged.

Houston Natural Gas showed no reaction to a decision by company directors to boost its quarterly dividend and company figures showing higher net earnings for the nine months. The stock was unchanged.

SMALLEST JET IN THE SHOW — A small boy sits on the wing of the smallest jet on display at the International Air Show in Paris. It's the Microjet 90, powered by a TRS18 engine. Designed as a pleasure and sport craft, the Microjet weighs nearly 1,000 pounds and has a maximum speed of almost 1,000 miles per hour. Behind the tiny jet is a French Airbus A300B.

New role of fringe benefits

NEW YORK (AP) — The term "fringe" when applied to employe compensation might continue in use from sheer habit, but with each new wage contract it is becoming more of a misnomer than before.

The fringe, in effect, no longer is just an enticing adornment to the paycheck; on average, it is now close to 25 per cent of the total compensation of production and related workers in manufacturing.

The trend reflects a changing view of the employer's role in society, from that of a contractor for labor and skills to that of a provider of services as well, and usually at a lower cost than the worker could obtain on his own.

It probably also represents an acknowledgment by workers that in times of inflation it might be better to accept the service, such as health care, than the dollar that tends to buy less and less of the service.

In 1959, fringes such as vacations, retirement programs, insurance, unemployment programs and the like accounted for just 14.6 per cent of total compensation.

By 1974, latest year for which detailed figures are available, the percentage had risen to 23.1, and the trend since then most likely has brought the fringe figure to about one-quarter of a worker's total compensation.

The Morgan Guaranty Survey, which supplied the figures, went further in seeking the significance of the trend by removing the effects of inflation, which tends to disquise the contrast between old and new.

It found that "a full 40 per cent of the real compensation gains produced by the economy was taken by employes in the form of improved fringe benefits rather than in enlarged money wages."

Here are the dollars and cents figures of employer expenditures for wages and benefits per hour worked:

—In 1959, total compensation equalled $2.61, compared with $5.88 in 1974.

—Pay for time worked in 1959 was $2.23, or 85.4 per cent of total compensation. In 1974 the figures were $4.52 and 76.9 per cent, respectively.

—Vacations and holidays accounted for 14 cents or 5.2 per cent of total pay in 1959. In 1974 the numbers had risen to 40 cents and 6.8 per cent.

—Retirement programs in 1959 took 11 cents or 4.2 per cent of the total. In 1974 the cost per hour worked had risen to 48 cents or 8.2 per cent of the total.

—Life insurance and health benefits in 1959 accounted for only 8 cents of the $2.61 total, or just 3 per cent. By 1974 the percentage had more than doubled to 6.3, and the cost per hour worked to 37 cents.

—Unemployment programs in 1959 took just 3 cents, or 1.5 per cent, of the total hourly compensation dollar. In 1974 the cost figure had risen to 8 cents, although the percentage of total compensation was down to 1.4.

In recent years new fringes have been added, most important of them being dental bills and legal fees, but specialists already are studying the possibility of adding automobile and home insurance plans.

With individual insurance costs rising sharply in some areas, compensation specialists believe the employer may be able to devise meaningful plans that would offer the benefits of lower group rates.

In addition, it is widely felt, the employer also is more able to analyze the increasingly complicated plans, and to provide bookkeeping services as well.

But perhaps more important than any of these considerations is the tax aspect. Most benefits are tax-deductible for the employer and tax-free for the employe. They are, in effect, the ordinary individual's tax shelter.

Homes, cars, food

Consumer spending high

NEW YORK (AP) — Tremors in the consumer confidence indices notwithstanding, a lot of money is being spent by Americans in this first half of 1977, on houses, cars, food and luxuries, among other things.

If current rates continue, more houses — new and resale — will be acquired this year than in any year in history. Car sales are booming. Food sales — well, good times or bad, families do their best not to cut back on nutrition.

And luxuries? Note that Tiffany & Co. reported the best first-quarter in its 141-year history, aided by its ability to display a $100,000 ring in less space than it takes another retailer to show a $2 ashtray.

But the rich are different, it has been said, and this comment might be especially true today. Consumer analysts continue to note that much of the buying these days is by an affluent one-third of the population.

The other two-thirds, it is alleged, are hurting. They are pressed merely to pay their bills; they cannot consider committing money to a better future; they are too busy trying to make do today.

Yes, but they are spending too. Consumer installment credit outstanding now totals a record $182.26 billion, 12.3 per cent higher than a year ago (deduct 5 or 6 per cent for inflation). New credit obligations are being assumed at a record or near-record pace.

Simultaneously, the savings rate has plunged, from about 7.5 per cent in the final quarter of 1976 to about 4.8 per cent in the first quarter of 1977. Families are dipping into savings to pay bills, you might say.

If this is your interpretation, you have company. Some consumer analysts maintain that families have come through the harsh winter in bad shape, forced to use their credit cards to pay for heating and other bills.

The financial pressures on households, it is said, are gradually removing the consumer as the driving force in the expansion. If business spending doesn't take up the slack, it is argued, the expansion might end.

As usual, there is disagreement.

Citibank's Economic Week concedes "it is true that new extensions of consumer installment debt rose to 16.8 per cent of disposable income in the first quarter," but it questions the worried interpretations of this.

In words that are underlined, it continues: "It is also true that this same percentage is a full point below the ones that prevailed from late 1972 to the middle of 1973, the peak before the last recession began."

Robert Johnson, executive director of Purdue University's Credit Research Center, notes that repayments as a percentage of disposable income in the first quarter were only 14.7 per cent. "We've seen it as high as 16 or 17 per cent," he said.

Citibank also observes that the money isn't all being used for current living expenses but instead is being invested in durable assets, in additions to the material value of households.

Red Ball moves into Southland

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has released an order authorizing Telecom Corp's wholly-owned motor carrier subsidiary, Red Ball, to extend operations into the Los Angeles County.

The order of the ICC authorizes Red Ball to consummate its purchase of a portion of the operating rights of Thunderbird Freight Lines, Inc. Red Ball will commence operations within the next 30 days.

The Greater Los Angeles area, including Los Angeles and Orange counties, will be the largest market in the Red Ball system.

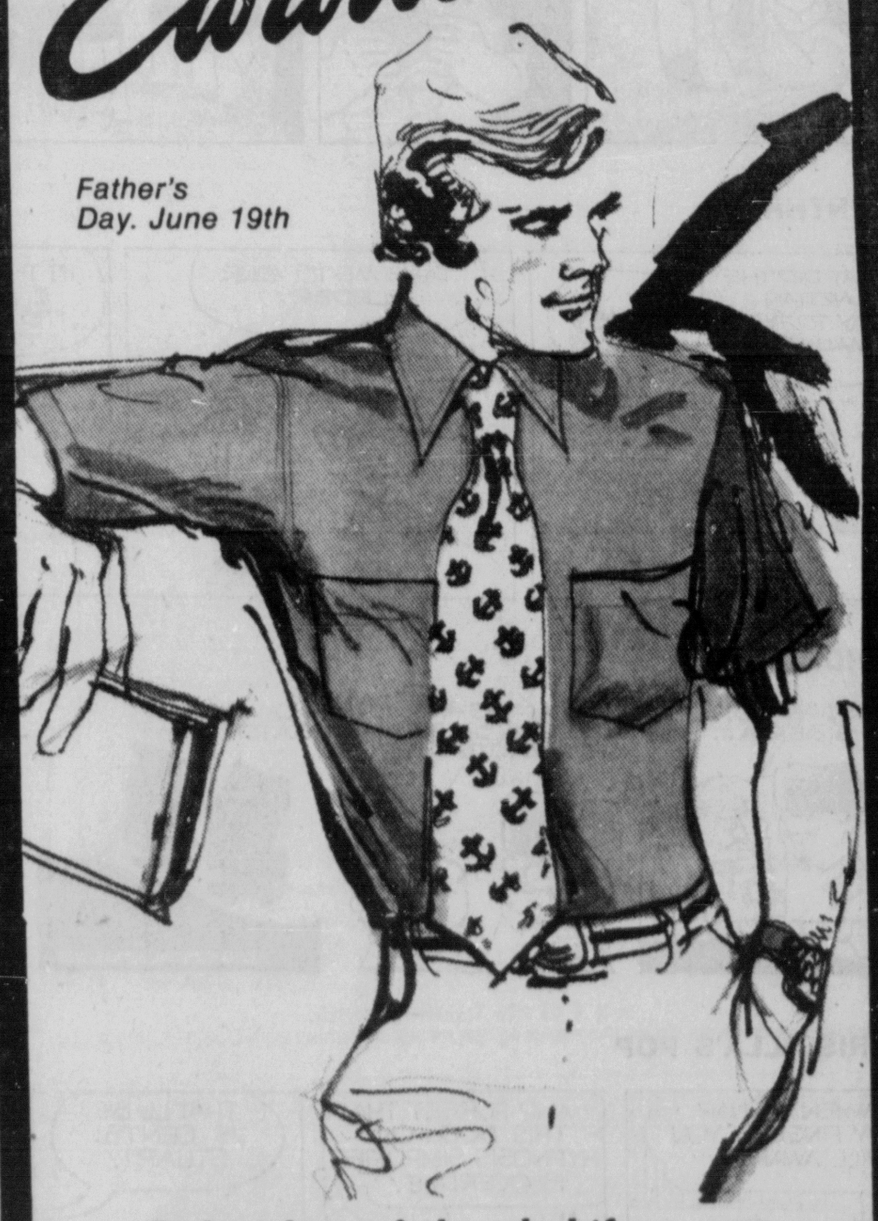

The service extension brings to 13 the number of Sun Belt states connected by Red Ball routes, which extend as far east as Atlanta and as far north as Denver and Kansas City.

TeleCom Corporation, listed on the American Stock Exchange with the symbol "TEL," is a holding company engaged in motor freight operations; wholesale distribution of heating and air conditioning equipment; equipment manufacture; financing small business; real estate investments; and Latin American hotel operations.

Boxing is one of the oldest known sports.

A man's hands were his first weapons. He used his fists to fight enemies and to settle arguments. And so it is no wonder that ancient man began to practice the skills of boxing as a sport.

The earliest records show that boxing was popular in ancient Sumer (now Iraq) at least 5,000 years ago.

Early Greek and Roman boxers often wrapped each fist in a leather thong which was studded with bits of metal. Boxing became so cruel that the "sport" was finally banned.

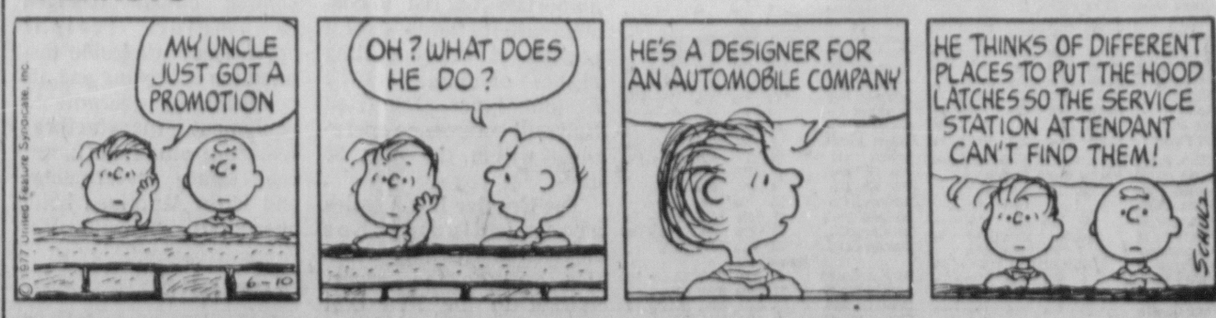

Boxing again became popular in England in the 1700s. These early contests were fought with bare knuckles, and matches often lasted several hours.

In 1867, a set of rules, known as the Marquis of Queensberry rules, provided that gloves be worn to soften the blows and to help prevent injuries.

Today, boxing is a well-regulated sport, in which each contestant tries to outpoint the other by skill.

Here's the answer

Q. — I bought a flush door about a year ago for our main entrance. While it is easy to use, we kind of miss the old paneled door that used to be there. Can some kind of moulding be used to make the door a bit more decorative?

A. — Yes. Your question is somewhat unusual, since readers who write in about that subject always want to know how to cover a paneled door to make it into a flush door. In your case, use the type of moulding sold for making picture frames. You can make the traditional rectangular designs or whatever strikes your fancy. You will have to miter the corners as if you were creating picture frames. Use glue as the principal fastener, with a few well-placed brads to hold the wood in place until the adhesive dries. The brads can be pushed slightly below the surface and then covered with wood putty or plastic wood.

Q. — We bought an old house in the country. It has a cesspool which the former owner admits had to be cleaned out every year or so. I would like to install a septic tank. Will I need a permit?

A. — No matter how remote your area, the chances are that both a permit and the approval of the local health department are required. Does the wording of your letter indicate that you intend to install the tank yourself? If so, better be sure you know what you are doing and that you will be permitted to do so legally. It's a rough job. Also, don't expect the tank to be trouble-free. Most septic tanks require pumping out every two to five years.

Q. — I would like to install furring strips across the joists in our basement so that I can later put up ceiling tiles. I expect to use 16-inch tiles, so I assume that the strips should be 16 inches apart. Must I start from the center of the room when installing the tiles or can I start at one wall?

A. — The furring strips should be 16 inches apart on center; that is, inches from the center of one strip to the center of the next. If you don't do it exactly that way, you will find that the tiles won't fit and you'll have to do a lot of patching. The purpose of starting the tiles from the center is so that the tiles along the walls will be the same size when trimmed to fit. Many persons find it easier to start along one wall and go across the room, trimming as necessary when they get to the other wall. There isn't one guest in 100 who will notice that there are full tiles on one side and partial tiles on the other.

Q. — Settle an argument. I have heard of several kinds of animal glue, but never rabbit skin glue. My friend says there is such a glue, but we tried several hardware stores without finding it.

A. — Yes, there is such a glue. It is used principally as a sizing in the application of a certain type of gold leaf. Most hardware stores do not sell it. Some art supply stores do.

Q. — While I have a power sander, I still do quite a bit of hand sanding. I never quite seem to know when to use a hard backing for the sandpaper and when to use a soft one. Can you help me?

A. — The finer the sanding being done, the more important it is that the backing have a give to it. When doing very coarse sanding, you might use a metal block; a little less coarse, wood; for fine sanding, a rubber or felt pad.

Q. — If the R numbers on insulation stand for the thickness of the insulation, why not merely say how thick the insulation is and forget about the R numbers?

A. — Because the R numbers stand for resistance to winter heat loss or summer heat gain, not precise thicknesses. One brand of insulation might be slightly thicker or thinner than another, but if they're marked with the same R number, they will resist heat flow equally well. For instance, R-19 mineral wool batts are 5 to 7 inches thick; R-13 blankets 3½ to 3⅝th inches thick; R-11, 3 to 4 inches.

HOW DOES GARDEN GROW? — Diane Richter, left, 9, Jason Willett, 8, and Todd Reed, right, 9, tend plants inside a plastic bubble inflated by forced air at Roselawn Grade School in Danville, Ill. Students are using the bubble as a greenhouse for plant project.

—For bigger, better crops, feed your vegetables periodically with a mild balanced fertilizer.

—Don't let your Fuchsias set seed. Keep the old flowers picked off to encourage blooming.

—Stake and tie your Tomatoes as they grow for sturdier plants and better harvests.

—Having a party? Liven up your yard with pots of blooming Geraniums, Pelargoniums, Petunias and Marguerites available from your nursery of course.

—If you're growing blackberries, cut off the old canes that bore fruit this year and loosely twine new growth onto the trellis. This will help prevent development of a messy tangle of brambles.

—Set out Celosia, Dwarf Dahlias, Zinnias, Marigolds for bedding plants with quick color that lasts throughout the summer.

—If ample water is available, feed Azaleas, Camellias and Rhododendrons with an acid plant food three to four times between bloom and fall.

—Fuchsias in heavy bloom should be kept fed regularly.

—Water hanging baskets frequently to offset the fast drying effects of wind and warm temperatures.

—For quick color, plant a Marguerite or two. There are many new varieties now available.

—Plant these vegetables now: cucumbers, squash, beans, sweet corn, tomatoes, peppers, and egg plant. In some localities, protection from late frost should be provided.

—Pick up and destroy all Camellia flowers which fall on the ground. These frequently harbor disease.

—If you forgot to plant that shade tree during the winter months, it is still not too late. Your nurseryman probably has shade trees growing in containers which can safely be transplanted now.

SHAPE TO COME — In an artist's conception an innovative fruit picker swallows a row of apple trees, collecting the fruit and leaving the trees behind. Scientists at the U.S.D.A. Agricultural Research Service in East Lansing, Mich., developed the unit, which prunes, sprays the trees and harvests fruit. But the trees must be shaped to fit the machine.

Some things you should know about the use of foam rubber:

Foam up to 2 inches thick can be cut with ordinary scissors. Thicker pieces can be cut with an upholsterer's electric knife or a bandsaw. The dealer will cut it for you if you bring in the pattern. Be sure to allow an extra half-inch margin around all sides of the pattern, since the margin later will be compressed and serve to keep the fabric covering tightly in place.

A pattern is unnecessary if you are covering something like a kitchen chair where the seat is easily removable. In that case, simply trace the outline directly on the foam.

To hold together two pieces of foam, use two coats of cement on both the rubber and the tacking tape. Let the cemented pieces set for an hour or two before using. Ordinary fabricating cement, the kind found in most offices, is excellent for this purpose.

When making a cushion and you want to achieve a slightly rounded effect, use what upholsterers call "crowned" pincore foam.

If you plan to cover a cushion with a plastic or a very tightly woven material or with leather, allow some kind of opening for the circulation of air. When using leather, high-pile fabrics, stretchy fabrics and plastics, cover the foam with muslin. When in direct contact with foam, plastics can become stiff and brittle. In addition, there can be a chemical reaction which may cause discoloration. The problems are largely avoided if you use a plastic material which has a fabric backing. Vinyl plastic fabrics are excellent for use with latex foam, especially the fabric-backed and supported vinyls which are washable.

Latex foam as a carpet underlay is non-skid, resilient and can be cut to shape to match a throw rug without shredding. It can also be used directly over concrete or other hard flooring.

If you have a small entrance hall or narrow foyer to furnish, you can knock together a slim, wooden bench or use an old piano bench, covering it with a one-inch-thick piece of slab foam and a bright fabric.

When small pieces of latex foam rubber are left over from projects, don't discard them. A few uses for these include — as a covering for wire hangers to eliminate the crease that often occurs on trousers hung on the bare wire; as a lint brush, since a small piece works wonders on both lint and pet hair; to protect fragile items during shipment; to stop small rattles around the house; as a protection for your camera and small radio when taking them on a trip; to hold fishing lures, one way being to sew a small piece of foam to a fishing jacket for imbedding artificial flies; and to decorate the home during the holiday season, by cutting the foam into interesting shapes and gluing tinsel to them.

Gladiolus show planned

The Southern California Gladiolus Society will present its 31st annual gladiolus show June 18 and 19, at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia. Show hours are 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, 10 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

According to Eugene Boiling, vice president of the Society and show chairman, the event will be a full-scale competition made up of 12 divisions, each division divided into classes and sections.

Gladiolus are grown primarily for cutting and for the many different kinds of bouquets that can be made from them. The North American Gladiolus Council, under which the show's horticultural divisions will be governed, lists 28 different basic colors. Flower sizes are coded, ranging from 2½-inch wide miniatures to 5½-inch wide giants. Plants range from 1 to over 5 feet in height.

In addition to specimans of gladiolus in all sizes and colors that will be exhibited at the show, there will be divisions for novice, junior and advanced growers, a division for flower arrangements, and an open competition for corsages.

Joyce Brothers

Questions her training

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I have four adult sons and daughters. On the whole, my two sons seem to be much more moral in their marital relationships than my daughters are. I always felt that women had higher moral standards than men, but I'm not so sure anymore. I sometimes feel guilty, thinking I must have failed to teach my girls something I apparently taught the boys. Is it possible to do a good job raising one sex and a bad job with the other? — M.O'L.

Dear M.O'L.: Of course, it's possible, but I strongly doubt that this was the case in your home. Sometimes a mother actively dislikes some of the male adults in her life and may find it difficult to separate her sons from them. Or, a woman may be so embittered by a divorce that she turns against all men. Occasionally, a woman disliked her mother and may be unable to separate her daughters from the image of her mother.

I suspect, however, that this situation didn't exist in your home. Moral standards depend not on gender but rather on the individual. In the past, we expected women's moral standards to be higher and they frequently were. Even today, most women over 30 take a far more serious view of sex relations outside marriage than men do. Men have a more indulgent attitude toward infidelity than women have.

You may be aware of your daughters' behavior simply because they may be more honest and open with you about their feelings and attitudes than your sons are. Try not to judge them too harshly. It's difficult for those of past generations who lived with different codes to understand those who are trying to find a path to follow in today's permissive, but often complex, standards and values.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My children, 9 and 13, love the violent shows on TV and my husband thinks it's perfectly healthy. I'm not so sure. They seemed bored and inattentive when they are forced to watch something I'd like to see. I've read and heard conflicting opinions about the effect of this play-acting violence on children. What is your opinion? — T.N.

Dear T.N.: I'm afraid I can't go along with the opinion of some that violence on TV merely helps children vicariously relieve their aggression. When you consider that the average American child will have watched 15,000 hours of television by the time he turns 18 and will have seen about 35,000 commercials and about 18,000 murders and other acts of violence, one simply can't dismiss this question lightly.

A Yale University psychiatrist, Dr. Robert Abramovitz, feels, and I agree, that there is now considerable evidence that violent television shows tend to make children more aggressive. It encourages them to seek physical means for solving their problems, partly because they are being taught by many shows that this is the most effective way.

One study compared the growth of 9-year-olds who watch TV. By the age of nineteen, the viewers of heavy violence had become significantly more aggressive than those who watched the less violent shows.

Try to wean your youngsters by talking with them, showing them that the weak, insecure, and frightened are often the first to use violence, and that the truly strong and intelligent use words to change situations they find intolerable. If they insist, watch with them and ask them to see if they can find nonviolent ways to solve the TV situations, ways in which the violence could have been avoided. This will stimulate their imaginations and help to draw them out.

New ways with white jewelry set for summer

For most women, white jewelry is as much of a summer staple as lemonade. Its frosty look is refreshing whether one takes it straight or adds a dash of color, says the Jewelry Industry Council.

A rope of white beads boldly striped in red or blue can provide quick relief from the hot weather "blahs" — especially if matching striped earrings are added.

For a dressier look, there are necklaces and bracelets that contrast the gleam of white enamel with the glint of gold. Syper cool looking on a suntanned hand are white and gold rings in interesting geometric designs.

This season the white jewelry is enlivened by texture as well as a touch of color. Ridged white enamel adds surface interest to earrings, bracelets and necklaces.

You may find that many of your favorite jewelry accessories have been summerized. The indispensable neckchain and pendant look fresh as a daisy in glossy white enamel. So does the Egyptian-inspired collar necklace.

This is a big year for bracelets and white enamel link bracelets come in a variety of styles, some inspired by traditional Oriental designs. Bangle and cuff bracelets find favor in red and blue enamel as well as the classic white.

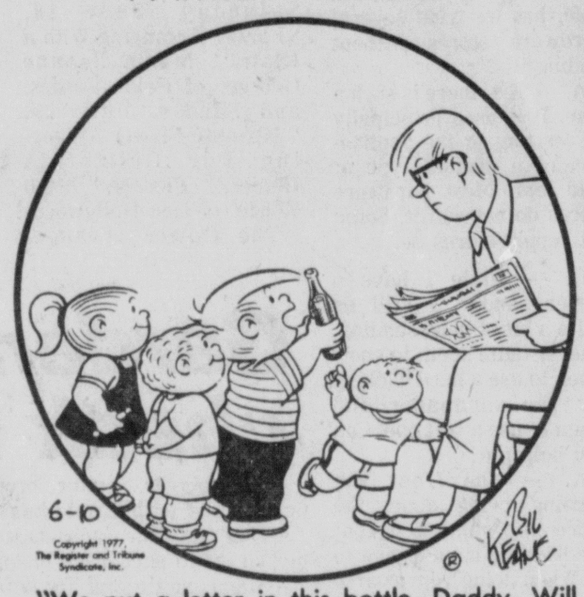

Whether tastes in jewelry are understated or boldly dramatic, there is a "great white way" to look this summer.

FACING DANGER

These two creatures of the wild are facing death at the hands of government agencies. The golden eagle (above) is endangered by the Interior Department which is considering the matter. The eagle is a rare and protected bird of the west, The Eastern timber wolf, below, may be removed from the endangered species list and reclassified as a threatened species by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This would mean that authorized state and federal employes could kill the grey-furred howlers if they prey on domestic livestock.
